

LAND BACK

Aboriginal land rights in New South Wales, today and always

EDITED BY HEIDI NORMAN

- Features leading First Nations voices, including prominent lawyers, scholars and activists, as well as many leading Local Aboriginal Land Councils
- More than 30,000 First Peoples participate in land councils, and Land Back shares how land rights operate and confronts the successes and failures of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act, as well as the future of land rights in NSW
- Includes a foreword from NSW Aboriginal Land Council Chairperson Dr Ray Kelly

Aboriginal land rights recognition in 1983 came after nearly 200 years of violent colonial dispossession and the near complete loss of land. For over 40 years, NSW Aboriginal people have worked to restore their Country and people.

The Aboriginal Land Rights Act in NSW includes unique features that remain unrealised in other parts of the country. The laws announced the policy of self-determination, compensation for loss, a land claims process, support for enterprises and the establishment of a network of land councils. Today there are 120 land councils that operate across the state.

Yet significant features of the land rights promise remain outstanding. Less than one per cent of the state has been restituted to Aboriginal land councils, with tens of thousands of land claims yet to be determined.

Professor Heidi Norman, a leading expert on Aboriginal political history, has brought together voices at the forefront of the movement, including lawyers, NSW Aboriginal Land Council Youth Committee members, students, academics, activists and organisers, to share the successes, failures and possible futures of NSW land rights.

Land Back tells the story of the work that has been done, and is yet to be done, to get land back.

FINDING AUSTRALIAN BIRDS

A Field Guide to Birding Locations

TIM DOLBY, ROHAN CLARKE

- Fully updated second edition, with new sites, current site access arrangements and the best information on where to find the birds
- Up-to-date information on over 400 good birding sites in Australia, written by experts with first-hand knowledge of the sites
- An easy-to-understand travel companion for local and international birdwatchers on Australia's best natural sites including Kakadu, the Great Barrier Reef, Uluru and the central deserts, vast eucalypt forests and beyond

A guide to the special birds found across Australia's vastly varied landscapes.

From the eastern rainforests to the central deserts, Australia is home to some 900 species of birds. Finding Australian Birds covers over 400 birdwatching sites conveniently grouped into the best birding areas, from one end of the country to the other. This includes areas such as Kakadu in the Top End and Uluru in the Red Centre of the Northern Territory, the Great Barrier Reef in Queensland, an amazing diversity of forests along the eastern Australian seaboard, including some of the world's tallest forests in Tasmania, the iconic Strzelecki and Birdsville Tracks in South Australia, and the mallee woodlands and remote Kimberley region in Western Australia.

Chapters are arranged by state or territory and begin with an overview. Birdwatching sites are then grouped by region to provide specific details on target species, access and useful information such as accommodation and facilities. This second edition includes over 30 new birdwatching sites and updated information on site access. The book also provides a comprehensive 'Bird Finding Guide', listing all of Australia's birds with details on their abundance and where exactly to see them.

Finding Australian Birds will be of value to both Australian birdwatchers and international visitors. It will assist novices, birders of intermediate skill and keen 'twitchers' to find any Australian species.

There's no place like home – although home isn't always a place. It could be a feeling, an instinct, a language, a person, a memory; it could be where we long to return or can't wait to escape. But for all its symbolic resonance, home also has myriad material consequences: from the picket fence to the political arena, it raises questions of sovereignty, identity, economics, class and domestic labour.

What's the future of home ownership? What does it mean to protect endangered languages? How do our conceptions of home shift when we start new lives in different countries?

Griffith Review 87: No Place Like Home heads out in search of home – what it means to us, why it matters and how it shapes our sense of self.

LISTEN IN
 How Radio Changed the Home
 BEATY RUBENS, FOREWORD BY JAMES NAUGHTIE

- Listen In explores the sensational early history of radio from the perspective of listeners through previously unpublished testimonies
- Packed with touching stories and anecdotes, illustrations and cartoons, it traces how radio transformed family life

Radio today can feel like a faithful old companion, but its early history was sensational. Between 1922 and 1939, British life was transformed by what was known as the ‘Radio Craze’.

This narrative history shows what the arrival of radio meant at a personal level through the voices and experiences of individuals as they adopted the then radical form of communication technology, invested in their first-ever gadgets and tuned in by their own firesides to outside voices and music, SOS calls, the Pips, the News, sport, royalty and innovative radiogenic comedy. It traces how radio affected family life, exploring whether it shifted dynamics between children and adults and between women and men, as well as its impact on class and a wider sense of nationhood.

Generously illustrated and drawing on contemporary journalism, fiction, diaries, cartoons and a remarkable cache of unpublished first-person testimonies discovered in the archives of the Bodleian Library in Oxford, Listen In is packed with entertaining and thought-provoking stories. It comes at a timely moment when traditional linear radio is shifting in response to podcasting, and the entire experience of how we consume audio is once again undergoing transformation.

PLAYING POSSUM

How Animals Understand Death

SUSANA MONSÓ

- How animals conceive of death and dying – and what it can teach us about our own relationships with mortality

When the opossum feels threatened, she becomes paralysed. Her body temperature plummets, her breathing and heart rates drop to a minimum, and her glands simulate the smell of a putrefying corpse. Playing Possum explores what the opossum and other creatures can teach us about how we and other species understand mortality, and demonstrates that the concept of death, far from being a uniquely human attribute, is widespread in the animal kingdom.

With humour and empathy, Susana Monsó tells the stories of ants who attend their own funerals, chimpanzees who clean the teeth of their dead, dogs who snack on their caregivers, crows who avoid the places where they saw a carcass, elephants obsessed with collecting ivory, and whales who carry their dead for weeks. Monsó, one of today's leading experts on animal cognition and ethics, shows how there are more ways to conceive of mortality than the human way, and challenges the notion that the only emotional reactions to death worthy of our attention are ones that resemble our own.

Blending philosophical insight with new evidence from behavioral science and comparative psychology, Playing Possum dispels the anthropocentric biases that cloud our understanding of the natural world, and reveals that, when it comes to death and dying, we are just another animal.

OLIVE COTTON
NATIONAL LIBRARY OF AUSTRALIA

- Showcases over 60 striking black-and-white photographs by significant Australian photographer Olive Cotton
- Discursive captions and commentary written by Cotton follow each image, some of which were first published in the 1995 edition
- Accompanied by an introductory essay by Helen Ennis and a memoir by Sally McInerney, Cotton’s daughter

Olive Cotton is one of Australia’s most respected photographers with a career that spanned over six decades. In 1995, the National Library of Australia produced a volume collating over 60 works, from her earliest photographs taken with a box Brownie, her exhibition work in the 1930s and examples of the commercial work from the Max Dupain Studio during the war, through to the ‘country’ years raising a family and photographing nature, her return to public prominence in 1985 with her first solo exhibition, and more recent works.

WOLFGANG SIEVERS
NATIONAL LIBRARY OF AUSTRALIA

- Features over 80 striking photographs by significant Australian photographer Wolfgang Sievers
- A biographical essay by Helen Ennis opens the book, outlining and highlighting Siever’s life and extraordinary career
- Includes some of Siever’s most venerated images, such as The Gears and Drilling for Oil

At the outbreak of the Second World War, Wolfgang Sievers (1913-2007) fled Nazi Germany to make a new home in Australia. Through his striking images of the post-war manufacturing boom, he would go on to become one of the country’s eminent photographers. Sievers’ images celebrate the excitement of the modern machine age. The photographer documented the height of Australian industry, recording places such as textile mills, match factories, oil refineries and treatment plants – many of them long since gone. In these places, Sievers found unexpected beauty and virtue, forming an invaluable record of Australia’s industrial past, history, culture and the form of photography.

ELLIS ROWAN
NATIONAL LIBRARY OF AUSTRALIA

- Showcases 80 beautiful watercolour and gouache works by prolific Australian artist Ellis Rowan, selected from over 900 works in the Ellis Rowan pictures collection held at the National Library of Australia
- Accompanied by an essay written by Patricia Fullerton, art consultant and foremost expert on Rowan’s artwork and life
- Includes Rowan’s paintings of New Guinean Birds of Paradise and exotic flowers, a possible inspiration for American modernist Georgia O’Keeffe’s work post-1919

Ellis Rowan (1848-1922) was a painter, naturalist, writer and explorer. For almost 50 years, she travelled to remote parts of Australia, India, Europe, America and New Guinea in pursuit of exotic flowers and wildlife to paint. One of Australia’s most-loved botanical artists, she was a woman who made her mark at a time when scientific illustration was a male domain.

The Ellis Rowan collection at the National Library of Australia comprises 919 watercolours and gouaches painted between about 1870 and 1920. This represents less than one third of Rowan’s total output.

HAROLD CAZNEAUX
NATIONAL LIBRARY OF AUSTRALIA

- Features over 80 stunning images from significant Australian photographer Harold Cazneaux, selected by Max Dupain from the extensive Cazneaux Collection held at the National Library of Australia
- Accompanied by an appreciation written by Max Dupain and a biography of Cazneaux from Alec Bolton
- Includes Cazneaux’s most iconic images, such as Spirit of Endurance, Puncture on Pitt Street and The Razzle Dazzle

Harold Cazneaux (1878-1953) is widely considered the greatest Australian photographer of the early twentieth century. In portraiture, architectural and industrial photography, landscapes and documentary work, he showed versatility, great imagination and technical mastery, and inspired the next generation of Australian photographers. In 1978, Max Dupain penned a thoughtful appreciation of ‘Caz’ and selected the images reproduced in this new edition.

The Cazneaux collection at the National Library of Australia comprises 272 exhibition prints, 200 working photographs and about 4,300 glass negatives, dating from roughly 1904 to 1940.

JOHN YOUNG: THE HISTORY PROJECTS

EDITED BY OLIVIER KRISCHER

- 636 images (361 colour, 275 black and white)
- Both commissioned and republished works
- Extensive access to the artist’s archive of materials such as personal correspondence and notes

Since his appropriation paintings of the 1980s and 1990s, John Young Zerunge has been at the forefront of explorations of cross-cultural identity. Between 2005 and 2019, the Hong Kong-born Australian artist completed eleven series of artworks that he came to call ‘The History Projects’. This book chronicles the development and reception of these artworks through the artist’s own reflections, and the writings and conversations that have circulated around them.

Originally a student of philosophy and painting, Young considers his art making as a research practice, working across painting, drawing and sculpture. ‘The History Projects’ take up, amongst other things, the question of how we do history, asking how we can account for the way that dominant histories determine our futures. From this, he opens spaces in which marginal voices – particularly nineteenth-century Chinese migrants and other diasporic voices – can speak.

DROUGHT COUNTRY

The Dry Times That Have Shaped Australia

ROBERT GODFREE

- Takes an in-depth look at the history of Australian droughts from European settlement to present day
- Identifies the worst droughts that have occurred over the past three centuries and the ways they affected agriculture, natural ecosystems and people
- Discusses how we can learn from our past to help our future on an increasingly water-scarce continent

Droughts have lurked behind Australia’s major nation-shaping moments from European settlement at Port Jackson to Federation. They have caused catastrophic damage to Aboriginal, colonial and modern societies and, of course, to the very land itself. Indeed, by depriving us of water, that element most fundamental to life, droughts cut to the very essence of living in Australia.

Weaving historical accounts with scientific theory, Robert Godfree will take you on a journey through the most brutal Australian droughts of the past three centuries, encountering mythmaking, colonialism, smallpox, economic depression, a ‘dust bowl’, heatwaves, ecosystem collapse and the coming of the second ‘age of coal’.

A KIND LIFE

Eat Plants, Buy Less, Slow Down – and Save the Planet

CARINA WOHLLEBEN, TRANSLATED BY JANE BILLINGHURST

- Carina Wohlleben inspired her father, Peter Wohlleben, author of the bestseller The Hidden Life of Trees, to go vegan for the planet. Peter now incorporates his vegan values into his writings about forests
- Readers of The Hidden Life of Trees and other Wohlleben titles; readers of Eating Animals by Jonathan Safran Foer and The Omnivore’s Dilemma by Michael Pollan
- Carina shares stories from her family life to show how she overcame struggles to adopt a plant-based lifestyle, and how you can too

What does it mean to live a kind life? In this inspiring book, a mother-of-two provides a blueprint for how she and her family adopted a plant-based lifestyle, sharing the eye-opening facts that convinced her they needed to make a change.

Carina Wohlleben grew up at nature’s doorstep, in a mountain lodge surrounded by forests and fields where her family grew vegetables and raised animals. Her father, the forester and bestselling author of The Hidden Life of Trees, taught her about the value of wilderness and the importance of preserving nature for everyone.

EAVESDROPPING ON ANIMALS

What We Can Learn From Wildlife Conversations

GEORGE BUMANN, FOREWORD BY JON YOUNG

- For readers of An Immense World by Ed Yong, The Lost Art of Reading Nature’s Signs by Tristan Gooley, and The Hidden Life of Trees and Forest Walking by Peter Wohlleben
- Lovers of Yellowstone (the show and the park!) will adore this book which shares the author’s best and most fascinating stories from leading animal intelligence guides in the famous park

Learn how to decode the secret conversations of wild animals all around you.

Humans once relied on the calls of wild animals to understand the natural world and their place within it. Now, this remarkable guide reveals what our ancestors knew long ago – that tuning in to the owl in the tree, the deer in the gully, can tell us important information and help us feel connected to our wild community.

In Eavesdropping on Animals, George Bumann shares the fascinating stories and insights he has gained from studying wildlife around the world for more than forty years, the last twenty of which have been spent leading popular programs on animal language and intelligence in Yellowstone National Park. Bumann shares tips, tricks, and advice for readers living in urban, suburban and rural areas and clearly shows us that you don’t need an exotic vacation or a biology degree to have transformative wildlife encounters.

PALESTINE IN A WORLD ON FIRE

A Global Conversation

KATHERINE NATANEL, ILAN PAPPÉ

- With contributors like Angela Y. Davis and Noam Chomsky, as well as editor Ilan Pappé whose work has been met with renewed interest in light of the recent censorship many writers are facing for their work on Palestine, this book will appeal to readers across various movements and disciplines invested in social justice
- We expect the book will appeal to readers in markets across the world, given the networks each contributor brings into the fold as well as the content of the interviews, building cross-movement solidarity between Palestinian liberation and other ongoing freedom struggles
- The editors and contributors bring a wide network of important contacts and relationships in the academic world, making this book a great candidate for course adoption across disciplines concerned with political science, decolonisation, gender studies, indigenous studies, and more

A collection of interviews with some of the world’s leading progressive thinkers on the movement for Palestinian liberation and its connections to struggles for justice across the globe.

As more and more people align themselves with the Palestinian people, Palestine in a World on Fire. The interviewees connect the struggle for Palestinian liberation to various liberatory movements around the world, simultaneously interrogating and recontextualising their own positions given the ongoing aggression in Palestine.

Palestine in a World on Fire highlights the centrality of Palestine in struggles shared across the world: capitalism, imperialism, misogyny, neo-colonialism, racism, and more. Each conversation tackles urgent events and unfolding dynamics, and the scholar-activists interviewed here provide invaluable perspectives and insights, illuminating the richness and relevance of recent scholarship on Palestine.

A LITTLE BIT OF AYURVEDA
 An Introduction to Ayurvedic Medicine
 DEACON CARPENTER

- The Little Bit of series has sold over 1.5 million copies combined
- Cute and gifty package
- Contemporary and accessible (though highly authoritative!) voice

This entry in the popular Little Bit of series introduces the ancient healing practice of Ayurveda.

Known as the ‘grandparent’ of modern medicine and the sister philosophy of yoga, Ayurveda lets patients take control of their own health by focusing on prevention, not medical intervention. Practitioners become active participants in their own wellness by managing stress, consuming healing foods, and understanding which remedies work for their particular body/mind types.

A Little Bit of Ayurveda explores the history, philosophy, and practical application of this ancient and relevant system: it looks at Ayurveda’s influence on both Eastern and Western medicines; outlines the ‘five element theory’ and the doshas; reveals how disease manifests itself; and offers simple rituals to keep you balanced, from seasonal eating and deep belly breathing to dry brushing and tongue scraping.

TOKYO BEFORE TOKYO
 Power and Magic in the Shogun’s City of Edo
 TIMON SCREECH

- A rich and original history of Edo, the shogun’s city that became modern Tokyo

Tokyo today is one of the world’s mega-cities, and the centre of a scintillating, hyper-modern culture – but not everyone is aware of its past. Founded in 1590 as the seat of the warlord Tokugawa family, Tokyo, then called ‘Edo’, was the locus of Japanese trade, economics and urban civilisation until 1868, when it mutated into Tokyo and became Japan’s modern capital.

This beautifully illustrated book presents important sites and features from the rich history of Edo, drawn from contemporary sources such as diaries, guidebooks and woodblock prints. These include the huge bridge on which the city was centred, the vast castle of the shogun, sumptuous Buddhist temples, bars, kabuki theatres and the Yoshiwara, Edo’s famous red-light district.

‘Screech is a highly knowledgeable guide to Ieyasu’s Edo. His narrative is generously illustrated... Today, very little of Tokyo’s past remains standing, but the original footprint is still there. With Tokyo Before Tokyo, Screech shows us where to look.’ – Japan Times

IN ASIAN WATERS

Oceanic Worlds from Yemen to Yokohama
 ERIC TAGLIACOZZO

- A sweeping account of how the sea routes of Asia have transformed a vast expanse of the globe over the past five hundred years, powerfully shaping the modern world

In the centuries leading up to our own, the volume of traffic across Asian sea routes – an area stretching from East Africa and the Middle East to Japan – grew dramatically, eventually making them the busiest in the world. The result was a massive circulation of people, commodities, religion, culture, technology, and ideas. In this book, Eric Tagliacozzo chronicles how the seas and oceans of Asia have shaped the history of the largest continent for the past half millennium, leaving an indelible mark on the modern world in the process.

Paying special attention to migration, trade, the environment, and cities, In Asian Waters examines the long history of contact between China and East Africa, the spread of Hinduism and Buddhism across the Bay of Bengal, and the intertwined histories of Islam and Christianity in the Philippines. The book illustrates how India became central to the spice trade, how the Indian Ocean became a ‘British lake’ between the seventeenth and nineteenth centuries, and how lighthouses and sea mapping played important roles in imperialism. The volume ends by asking what may happen if China comes to rule the waves of Asia, as Britain once did.

INTO THE GREAT WIDE OCEAN

Life in the Least Known Habitat on Earth
 SÖNKE JOHNSEN

- A seagoing scientist explores how life thrives in one of the most mysterious environments on Earth

The open ocean, far from the shore and miles above the seafloor, is a vast and formidable habitat that is home to the most abundant life on our planet, from giant squid and jellyfish to anglerfish with bioluminescent lures that draw prey into their toothy mouths. Into the Great Wide Ocean takes readers inside the peculiar world of the seagoing scientists who are providing tantalising new insights into how the animals of the open ocean solve the problems of their existence.

Sönke Johnsen vividly describes how life in the water column of the open sea contends with a host of environmental challenges, such as gravity, movement, the absence of light, pressure that could crush a truck, catching food while not becoming food, finding a mate, raising young, and forming communities. He interweaves stories about the joys and hardships of the scientists who explore this beautiful and mysterious realm, which is under threat from human activity and rapidly changing before our eyes.

Into the Great Wide Ocean presents the sea and its inhabitants as you have never seen them before and reminds us that the rules of survival in the open ocean, though they may seem strange to us, are the primary rules of life on Earth.

BEING ILL
On Sickness, Care and Abandonment
NEIL VICKERS, DEREK BOLTON

- Original, moving, and drawing from a range of fields, an essential exploration of what it means to be ill

A serious illness often changes the way others see us. Few, if any, relationships remain the same. The sick become more dependent on partners and family members, while more distant contacts become strained. The carers of the ill are also often isolated. This book focuses on our sense of self when ill and how infirmity plays out in our relationships with others. Neil Vickers and Derek Bolton offer an original perspective, drawing on neuroscience, psychology, psychoanalysis as well as memoirs of the ill or their carers to reveal how a sense of connectedness and group belonging can not only improve care but also make societies more resilient to illness. This is an essential book on the experience of major illness.

'The reaction to illness, our own and that of others to whom we are close, reveals much of what it means to be human and live in society. Such is the theme of this humane and scholarly study which has much to say about the fundamentals of caring for others, both when they are ill, and when they are well.' – Michael Marmot, director of the UCL Institute of Health Equity

PLATO
A Civic Life
CAROL ATACK

- A new reading of Plato's philosophy that reveals it as deeply shaped by his experiences in Athens

Plato is a key figure from the beginnings of Western philosophy, yet the impact of his lived experience on his thought has rarely been explored. Plato lived in turbulent times, born during a war that led to Athens' defeat and decline. A restored democracy enabled the execution of his teacher Socrates.

Carol Atack explores how his life in Athens influenced Plato's thinking, how he developed the Socratic dialogue into a powerful philosophical tool, and how he used the institutions of Athenian society to create a compelling imaginative world. Accessibly written, this book shows how Plato made Athens the place where diverse ideas were integrated into a new way of approaching big questions about existence and the societies we create, then and now.

'Philosophy is just the beginning in Carol Atack's page-turner. From Plato's own travels and troubles to the strange life and peculiar death of his teacher Socrates, the struggles of his city at the hands of enemies at home and abroad to the efforts of its citizens to make sense of things in an era of unending crisis, this is a gripping account of Classical Athens under siege told through the sharp eyes and shifting ideas of its most notable son.' – Josephine Quinn, author of How the World Made the West: A 4,000-Year History

LITHIUM

The Global Race for Battery Dominance and the New Energy Revolution
 LUKASZ BEDNARSKI

- Now in paperback!
- How a little-known mineral will affect our jobs and daily lives as much as, if not more than, AI or Big Data have done
- Lithium is ‘the new oil’ and comes with all the complications that entails
- Bednarski takes us from the salt lakes of the Tibetan plateau, where Chinese government-linked companies extract lithium, to Argentina, Chile and Bolivia, which holds the world’s largest resources of the mineral

A global energy revolution is unfolding before our eyes: ever-growing numbers of electric vehicles on our roads, laptops that last all day on a single charge and solar panels on our roofs, all reliant on lithium-ion batteries. This revolution is happening at breath-taking speed, with the potential to completely transform key industries and the way we live.

For the first time in history, we can now actually store this green energy we talk so much about. Often referred to as ‘the new oil’, lithium allows large amounts of energy to be squeezed into a very small space. Demand is soaring, and the lithium business is full of drama: bitter rivalries, shady deals and visionaries such as Elon Musk, who is building lithium battery giga-factories across the world.

THE SOVIET CENTURY

Archaeology of a Lost World
 KARL SCHLÖGEL, TRANSLATED BY RODNEY LIVINGSTONE

- Now in paperback!
- An encyclopedic and richly detailed history of everyday life in the Soviet Union

The Soviet Union is gone, but its ghostly traces remain, not least in the material vestiges left behind in its turbulent wake. What was it really like to live in the USSR? What did it look, feel, smell, and sound like? In The Soviet Century, Karl Schlögel, one of the world’s leading historians of the Soviet Union, presents a spellbinding epic that brings to life the everyday world of a unique lost civilisation.

A museum of – and travel guide to – the Soviet past, The Soviet Century explores in evocative detail both the largest and smallest aspects of life in the USSR, from the Gulag, the planned economy, the railway system, and the steel city of Magnitogorsk to cookbooks, military medals, prison camp tattoos, and the ubiquitous perfume Red Moscow. The book examines iconic aspects of Soviet life, including long queues outside shops, cramped communal apartments, parades, and the Lenin mausoleum, as well as less famous but important parts of the USSR, including the Great Soviet Encyclopedia, the voice of Radio Moscow, graffiti, and even the typical toilet, which became a pervasive social and cultural topic.

PERIOD

The Real Story of Menstruation
 KATE CLANCY

- Now in paperback!
- A bold and revolutionary perspective on the science and cultural history of menstruation

Menstruation is something half the world does for a week at a time, for months and years on end, yet it remains largely misunderstood. Scientists once thought of an individual's period as useless, and some doctors still believe it's unsafe for a menstruating person to swim in the ocean wearing a tampon. Period counters the false theories that have long defined the study of the uterus, exposing the eugenic history of gynecology while providing an intersectional feminist perspective on menstruation science.

Blending interviews and personal experience with engaging stories from her own pioneering research, Kate Clancy challenges a host of myths and false assumptions. There is no such a thing as a 'normal' menstrual cycle. In fact, menstrual cycles are incredibly variable and highly responsive to environmental and psychological stressors. Clancy takes up a host of timely issues surrounding menstruation, from bodily autonomy, menstrual hygiene, and the COVID-19 vaccine to the ways racism, sexism, and medical betrayal warp public perceptions of menstruation and erase it from public life.

PARFIT

A Philosopher and His Mission to Save Morality
 DAVID EDMONDS

- Now in paperback!
- From the bestselling co-author of Wittgenstein's Poker, an entertaining and illuminating biography of a brilliant philosopher who tried to rescue morality from nihilism

Derek Parfit (1942-2017) is the most famous philosopher most people have never heard of. Widely regarded as one of the greatest moral thinkers of the past hundred years, Parfit was anything but a public intellectual. Yet his ideas have shaped the way philosophers think about things that affect us all: equality, altruism, what we owe to future generations, and even what it means to be a person. In Parfit, David Edmonds presents the first biography of an intriguing, obsessive, and eccentric genius.

Believing that we should be less concerned with ourselves and more with the common good, Parfit dedicated himself to the pursuit of philosophical progress to an extraordinary degree. He always wore grey trousers and a white shirt so as not to lose precious time picking out clothes, he varied his diet as little as possible, and he had only one serious non-philosophical interest: taking photos of Oxford, Venice, and St. Petersburg. In the latter half of his life, he single-mindedly devoted himself to a desperate attempt to rescue secular morality – morality without God – by arguing that it has an objective, rational basis.

TRIPLE FIT STRATEGY
 How to Build Lasting Customer Relationships
 and Boost Growth
 CHRISTOPH SENN, MEHAK GANDHI

- A comprehensive framework for transforming B2B sales
- Clarity, precision, and practicality make this an approachable framework with deeply actionable advice
- A rich set of field examples from major B2B companies provide credible evidence of the framework’s effectiveness

It’s time for companies to rethink their growth logic. Business relationships are still dominated by a narrow perspective – trying to match products to customer needs and making deals. It’s a buyer-seller relationship built on a transactional mindset, and it’s not how you should be doing business.

There’s a better way – orchestrating growth – in which suppliers and customers collaborate to build strategies and grow together. With clarity and precision, Christoph Senn and Mehak Gandhi lay out the Triple Fit Strategy framework, which will help you escape the product-centric mindset and put customers at the heart of your business strategy. Based on a hands-on tool set, Triple Fit ensures that customer and supplier are aligned across three areas: planning, execution, and resources.

TERRIBLE BEAUTY

 AUDEN SCHENDLER

- A first-hand, trench-view story of the failure of the modern corporate sustainability movement and the movement’s co-option by the fossil fuel industry, as well as an inspiring prescription for positive change, a story about leadership and parenting in a climate-changed world, and our common longing for a better future
- A positive and inspiring roadmap for a new environmentalism

A firsthand, trench-view story of the failure of the modern environmental movement – and an inspiring prescription for change.

Something’s gone badly awry with environmentalism. We faithfully separate our waste into different streams, but wonder whether it really makes a difference. Global companies announce their commitment to carbon negativity while simultaneously sponsoring oil conferences. American businesses, communities, and individuals assiduously measure their carbon footprints, then implement voluntary emissions-reduction programs, all while trumpeting their do-gooderism.

The problem is, none of this – whether individual efforts or corporate sustainability tactics – will make a dent in solving the civilisational threat of climate change. We only pretend it will, at our peril.

PATH TO ZERO

12 Climate Conversations That Changed the World
 TUCKER PERKINS, FOREWORD BY MEREDITH ANGWIN

- Tucker Perkins’ Path to Zero shows how we can reverse climate change and create a cleaner environment for future generations by putting aside our biases and working together for change

Tucker Perkins’ Path to Zero shows how we can reverse climate change and create a cleaner environment for future generations by putting aside our biases and working together for change.

Climate catastrophe-inspired narratives like ‘Electrify Everything!’ have a grip on people’s minds. The simplicity of the solution to the most complex endeavour ever faced by humans – the journey to a net zero future – is seductive, but it is fundamentally flawed.

In Path to Zero: 12 Climate Conversations That Changed the World, author, Tucker Perkins takes readers on a series of future-casting journeys from the Year 2050 back to the present day to show us how a better way – a wide path to net zero carbon emissions – was, and can be, achieved in an accelerated time frame.

In this work, Perkins uncovers an array of practical, often obvious, measures the world can take to achieve a better, cleaner future inclusive of energy and power.

HOW TO WORK WITH COMPLICATED PEOPLE

Strategies for Effective Collaboration with (Nearly) Anyone
 RYAN LEAK

- Bestselling author and transformational speaker Ryan Leak shares research-based strategies for working with even the most challenging people to create more collaborative and productive teams

Who is the most complicated person you work with?

You probably don’t have to think very hard to answer that question. You already know their name, their job title, their quirks, and their flaws. You have first-hand experience with the mental and emotional fallout they leave in their wake. You’ve seen the problems their complexity creates for everyone on their team. You wish you could fix them, solve them, ignore them, or teleport them to a parallel dimension.

But you can’t.

You have to work with them.

(You could quit, but your next job will have a complicated person waiting for you.)

That means you need effective strategies to collaborate with (nearly) anyone. Especially the picky, prickly, problematic ones.

THE WILDERNESS

AYSEGÜL SAVAS

- Savas’s chronicle into the wilderness of new motherhood reframes a more commonplace understanding of maternal ambivalence; it is a refreshing look that brings warmth, clear-sightedness, even humour, and a grounding in myth and tradition to those early days

A deeply felt chronicle into the wilderness of the first forty days of new motherhood.

In the final weeks of her pregnancy, Aysegül Savas becomes fascinated by the mythology around the first forty days after giving birth, and the invisible beings that are said to surround the mother. ‘In Turkish, we speak of extracting the forty days, like a sort of exorcism. My grandmothers assure me that it will all get better after forty days are out.’ A friend lends a book that suggests forty days of rest and fortifying broths and avoiding wind and cold.

In Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, forty days are seen as a period of trial and transformation. They are often journeys into the wilderness and ‘its vast and unruly territories.’ When the baby arrives, Savas charts her own path into the wilderness of new motherhood – a space of contradiction, of chaos and care, mothering and being mothered. ‘What is the trial of the postpartum crossing?’ writes Savas. ‘Where will mother and child emerge once they have left the wild?’

SECRETS OF A SUITCASE

The Countess, the Nazis, and Middle Europe’s Lost Nobility

PAULINE TERREEHORST, TRANSLATED BY BRENT ANNABLE

- A fascinating portrait of the crumbling of old cosmopolitan Central Europe as the Nazis rose to power – all through the family belongings hidden in a suitcase
- The countess who owned the suitcase was next-door neighbour to Hitler’s henchman, Göring

When Pauline Terreehorst bid for a vintage Gucci suitcase at Sotheby’s Amsterdam, she had no idea what was inside. After picking up her prize, she found that the case was filled with dresses, fur collars and lace voiles, and accompanied by two brown boxes of postcard albums showing churches and castles in Austria, France, England and Scotland. This curious correspondence was addressed to an Austrian countess, businesswoman and philanthropist called Margarethe Szapáry, and her daughter.

These unexpected family treasures open a window onto a lost world. The Szapárys’ social, cultural and political landscape disappeared in the upheavals that seized Europe during the first half of the twentieth century – a time when borders were redrawn, old cities received new names, communities changed loyalties, and the transnational, monarchist aristocrats of Middle Europe had to decide whether to become Germans under Nazi rule.

THE SCHUBERT TREATMENT

A Story of Music and Healing

CLAIRE OPPERT, TRANSLATED BY KATIA GRUBISIC

- For readers of Oliver Sacks's books, Being Mortal by Atul Gawande, When Breath Becomes Air by Paul Kalanithi, Do No Harm by Henry Marsh
- Inspiring stories of patients who experience dramatically reduced pain and anxiety after hearing Oppert play her cello
- Although this book is grounded in health and medical science, Oppert's writing on art, music, sickness, pain, and dying is poetic and luminous

A celebrated art therapist plays the cello for her patients – and offers a moving reflection on the extraordinary power of music to enrich our lives, all the way to the very end.

When Claire Oppert plays the cello, miracles happen. Children with profound autism, patients in extreme pain and distress, even people on the threshold of death smile, cry, laugh, sing and dance. 'When you play, I'm not sick anymore', one man tells her. 'I feel happy, I feel alive.'

In The Schubert Treatment, Oppert recounts her remarkable story of healing suffering through music, alongside portraits of the many people she has helped.

THE STARVING ARTIST MYTH

Bust the Stereotype and Find Success in Creative Careers

MARK J. JONES

- Advice for students and their parents who are considering a career in the arts
- Debunks the myth of the starving artist
- Proves our economy is driven by creative industries that define our culture, and sets out several possible career paths in the arts

Creative sector jobs are driving our economy and offer a viable career path for today's youth.

Careers in the creative sector offer flexibility and security. Why then are more young people not seeking them out? Because they believe the myth of the starving artist, which conjures up images of penniless writers and artistic bohemians. The myth leads families and some educators to discourage young people from choosing a path they would love in favour of more secure fields. Years later, they could come to regret that choice.

Mark J. Jones, Dean of the Faculty of Animation, Art and Design at Sheridan College, one of the top post-secondary schools for creative arts and animation in Canada, shows that the persistent belief in the starving artist myth is not just costing young people the opportunity to explore satisfying careers, it is also costing our economy in terms of lost opportunity.

Introducing University of Wales Press and their imprint Calon Books!

SHEEPLANDS

How Sheep Shaped Wales and the World

ALAN MARSHALL

- This title explores how landscapes across the world have been impacted and influenced by one specific thing: sheep
- This book also reveals how sheep have impacted on the development of the modern world
- Wales has long been associated with sheep and this title explores how they might continue to shape both Wales and the wider world

Human civilisation was not just created by humans: we had the help of many creatures, and foremost among these were sheep. From Argentina to Australia and from Mesopotamia to Mongolia, just about every country with hills and meadows has adopted and then developed sheep farming as a way of living. And in Wales in particular, sheep played a central role in shaping landscape and culture.

Sheeplands outlines the journeys taken by some of these sheep as they voyaged across the world, both by themselves and with human shepherds, from the earliest human settlements to the present day. Along the way, Alan Marshall paints vivid portraits of the roles sheep have played in the development of the modern world, in times of peace and war, and describes how our sheeplands might continue to influence Wales and the wider world in future years.

AN INDIGO SUMMER

ELLIE EVELYN ORRELL

- The work will include artwork by the author, illustrating and drawing on one of the books key themes of how Wales and the natural world inspire her as an artist
- Indigo dyeing is a traditionally Japanese art (and Jeanette Orrell learnt it in Japan, which is discussed in the book), making this title of international interest

One summer, a mother and daughter are reunited in the small village of Betws Gwerful Goch in North Wales following the death of a father and grandfather. Ellie returned from studying at university, while Jeanette had been studying the art of indigo dyeing in Japan. In this lyrical memoir, Ellie Evelyn Orrell transports readers to their hillside garden, reflecting on a summer spent learning to work with indigo, and witnessing the power of creativity in moments of mourning and recovery. In it, she weaves together stories of resettling in a once-familiar landscape; the healing powers of art; the historical, mythological and present day properties of indigo; and the presence of this indelible colour within the Welsh landscape.

An Indigo Summer is an absorbing meditation on art, rural life and roots, grief, creativity and the artistic process.

GAY ALIENS AND QUEER FOLK

How Russell T. Davies Changed TV

EMILY GARSIDE

- This title directly explores the queer narratives present throughout Russell T. Davies’ extensive work in television
- This title looks at the key themes of Davies’ work, including politics, sex, sexuality and AIDS, and how he broke down barriers to show the truth and joy of queer identities

The television writing of Russell T. Davies defies easy categorisation, ranging from children’s programmes, across Shakespeare, historical drama and comedy, to the landmark series that have made him a household name: Queer As Folk, Doctor Who and It’s a Sin.

Gay Aliens and Queer Folk takes a deep dive into the queer narratives Russell T. Davies has brought to our screens, exploring how each work created new space for LGBTQ+ stories to enter our living rooms and looking at their impact on the people who saw themselves reflected on mainstream television, often for the first time.

ABANDON ALL HOPE

A Personal Journey Through the History of Welsh Literature

GARY RAYMOND

- This title takes a unique and funny approach to exploring the history of Wales’ English-language literature

So begins a most unusual odyssey, in which a writer – who bears a striking similarity to our author, Gary Raymond – allows himself to be led through the many-layered realms of Welsh literature, not by Virgil but by the late Professor Raymond Williams.

Taking in the history of Welsh writing in English from the legacy of the bardic tradition to contemporary experimental works, Abandon All Hope introduces Welsh literature in a way it has never been presented before – as cutting edge, experimental, vibrant, exciting, intimate, and with a multitude of voices. This voyage into a uniquely Welsh Inferno offers a revolutionary new way to examine and explain literary history.

RETURN TO MY TREES

Notes from the Welsh Woodlands

MATTHEW YEOMANS

- A fascinating and funny adventure that offers insight into the past, present and future of Wales’s woodlands and shows what the rest of the world can learn from them

When and how did we humans lose our connection with nature – and how do we find it again?

Matthew Yeomans seeks to answer these questions as he walks more than 300 miles through the ancient and modern forests of Wales, losing himself in their stories (and on the odd unexpected diversion, too).

Return to My Trees weaves together history and folklore with tales of industrial progress and decay. On his journey, he visits landmarks that once were home to ancient Druids, early Celtic saints, Norman Lords and the great mining communities that reshaped Wales. He becomes immersed in the woodlands that inspired the country’s great legends.

SHAPING THE WILD

Wisdom from a Welsh Hill Farm

DAVID ELIAS

- This book considers topical current issues such as nature conservation, its impact on farming, and government policies on climate change
- This book holistically considers how farming traditions, conservation, and government policy can coexist and work towards shared goals

What can one Welsh hill farm tell us about how we can help nature to thrive?

In this captivating debut, conservationist David Elias explores a farm in the Eryri (Snowdonia) National Park and unpacks what it shows us about the gritty reality of trying to reconcile hill farming and caring for nature. Visiting through the seasons, he forms a deep relationship with the land and the people who work it, coming to understand their particular way of life, history and concerns about the future.

PUTIN'S WAR ON UKRAINE

Russia's Campaign for Global Counter-Revolution

SAMUEL RAMANI

'[Ramani's] encyclopedic descriptions...yield interesting details and...solid tactical analysis.' – The New York Times

- Updated edition due in February!
- Author is an Oxford and RUSI affiliated expert on Russia who has spent years studying the Russian-Syria relationship
- Considers the decision to opt for full-out war rather than a smaller-scale intervention in Donbas and the impact that has had on the Putin regime's own legitimacy

Eight years after annexing Crimea, Russia embarked on a full-scale invasion of Ukraine in February 2022. Vladimir Putin viewed this attack on a neighbour as a legacy-defining mission, which sought to restore a central element of Russia's sphere of influence and undo Ukraine's surprisingly resilient democratic experiment. These aspirations were swiftly eviscerated, as the conflict degenerated into a bloody war of attrition and the Russian economy crumbled under the weight of sanctions.

WHO WILL DEFEND EUROPE?

An Awakened Russia and a Sleeping Continent

KEIR GILES

- Europe is sleepwalking into disaster. Who will rouse it to face the Russian threat?
- Timely look at the dangers of our lack of defence
- An urgent look at the stark choices we face in the wake of Putin's threat

While Ukraine holds back Russia's onslaught, Moscow has been working hard at rebuilding its army for the next invasion. But for the past 30 years, Britain and Europe have been running down their armed forces and defence industries, thinking that war would never come. Most of the continent banked an increasingly illusory 'peace dividend' while outsourcing defence to the United States.

Now, change in the US and clear intent from the Kremlin have set Europe scrambling to rebuild its defences. But will it be enough, and can it be in time?

HUMANITARIANISM 2.0

New Ethics for the Climate Emergency

HUGO SLIM

- A radical call for aid workers to rethink their practical roles and guiding principles, as people around the world face environmental catastrophe
- Practical guide showing how humanitarian ethics can adapt with climate change
- Author is a seasoned aid advisor

This book spells out a new framework for humanitarian aid in the long emergency of climate change. Looking ahead to the massive needs of the late 2020s and the 2030s, Hugo Slim shows how current ethics and action in the sector are necessary, but not sufficient, for the new moral and operational challenges of our planetary crisis.

Humanitarianism 2.0 offers a series of practical ethical pathways for aid workers and organisations to reimagine and redesign their purpose in the increasing number of climate-related disasters around the world.

TOFU

A Culinary History

RUSSELL THOMAS

- The surprising, spicy story of this globe-trotting vegetable protein staple

To the untrained eye there's nothing as unexciting as tofu, normally regarded as a tasteless, beige, congealed mass of crushed, boiled soybeans. However, tofu more than stands up on its own. Reviled for decades as a vegetarian oddity, the brave, wobbly block has made a comeback. This global history of bean curd stretches from ancient creation myths and tomb paintings, via Chinese poetry and Japanese Buddhist cuisine, to deportations in Soviet Russia and struggles for power on the African continent. It describes the potentially non-Chinese roots of tofu, its myriad types, why 'eating tofu' is an insult in Cantonese, and its environmental impact today.

Warning: this book actually makes tofu exciting. It's anything but bland.

MERPEOPLE

A Human History

VAUGHN SCRIBNER

'Whether you fancy a quick dip or a marathon swim, this is a delightful book to splash around in, a gloriously illustrated and meticulously researched study of our closest aquatic relatives.'
– Patricia Fara / Literary Review

- Now in paperback!
- A wide-ranging, beautifully illustrated history of mermaids and mermen from the classics to cosplay

People have been fascinated by merpeople since ancient times. From the sirens of Homer's Odyssey to Hans Christian Anderson's The Little Mermaid to the 1984 film Splash, myths, stories and legends of half-human half-fish creatures abound. In modern times mermaiding has gained popularity amongst cosplayers.

In Merpeople: A Human History, Vaughn Scribner traces the long history of mermaids and mermen, taking in a wide variety of sources and 117 striking images. From film to philosophy, church halls to coffee houses, ancient myth to modern science, Scribner shows that mermaids and tritons are – and always have been – everywhere.

OFF THE GROUND

Paul McCartney in the 1990s

J. R. MOORES

- A sympathetic but clear-eyed exploration of Paul McCartney's work in the 1990s, arguably his most important since the rise of the Beatles

Paul McCartney's 1990s was an era like no other, perhaps even the most significant decade of his entire career after the 1960s. Following a shakier 1980s, the decade would see McCartney re-emerge with greater energy, momentum and self-belief. J. R. Moores' sympathetic but not uncritical new book explores McCartney's 90s, with its impressive studio and live albums, colossal tours, unexpected side-projects and imaginative collaborations, forays into classical composition, some new Beatles numbers and a whole lot more besides.

Moores reveals how McCartney's reputation began to be perceived more generously by the public, and argues that Macca's output and activities in the 90s were to uncover more about the person behind them than any other decade.

HOW TO DRAW COOL STUFF: SHADING, TEXTURES AND OPTICAL ILLUSIONS

CATHERINE V. HOLMES

- The 2nd book in the 'How to Draw Cool Stuff' series. From basic shapes to realistic drawings, mastering shading, texture, and illusions. A must-have for artists of all levels

Inside this book, you will find simple illustrations that cover the necessities of drawing cool stuff. Specific exercises are provided that offer step-by-step guidelines for drawing a variety of subjects.

Each lesson starts with an easy-to-draw shape that will become the basic structure of the drawing. From there, each step adds elements to that structure, allowing the artist to build on their creation and make a more detailed image. Starting with the basic forms, the artist is provided a guide to help see objects in terms of simplified shapes. Instructions for shading to add depth, contrast, character, and movement to a drawing are then covered.

KANDI ZELLER

- In 2018 there were an estimated 1.5 million practicing witches in the US, and popularity has increased greatly since then; 4.2 million Americans are officially recognised as disabled, with many millions more living with disabling conditions

Magick is all around us and should be for everyone. But the practices in many witchcraft books can be difficult for many of us to perform due to chronic illnesses, sensory issues, allergies, or other disabilities – and the financial limitations that often go hand in hand with them.

In this guide, disabled witch Kandi Zeller sets out to change that. Through nearly a hundred inclusive (and sometimes spicy) magickal rituals designed for witches with disabilities of all kinds-physical and mental, visible and invisible – Disabled Witchcraft lays out a truly accessible magickal practice with a solid dose of humour and heart.

COOKING WITH MAGIC MUSHROOMS

The Psilocybin Cookbook

DAVID CONNELL

- There are over 30 million psychedelic users in the US
- An analysis of the National Survey on Drug Use and Health found that almost 10% of respondents had used psilocybin at least once. This was most likely in subjects who were men, bisexual, and/or used marijuana

Head to the kitchen to make your next psilocybin experience unforgettable.

Magic mushrooms offer so many marvels, from transformative healing to excitement. One thing they are not known for is flavour. David Connell's quest to make psilocybin palatable led him to develop recipes that integrate small, measured quantities of shrooms into tasty food and drink.

BOTTICELLI

Artist and Designer

ANA DEBENEDETTI

- A revealing look at the commercial strategy and diverse output of this canonical Renaissance artist

In this vivid account Ana Debenedetti examines the life and work of Renaissance artist Sandro Botticelli, through the lens of the organisation of his workshop and the commercial strategies he devised to make his way in the very competitive art market in Florence at that time. She looks at the remarkable career of this pivotal artist and his production with fresh eyes, presenting the analysis within the wider context of Florentine society and culture.

Many of Botticelli's most celebrated works such as The Birth of Venus are evaluated alongside less familiar forms such as tapestry and embroidery, showing the wide breath of the artist's oeuvre and his talent as a designer across media.

AFRICA'S STRUGGLE FOR ITS ART

History of a Postcolonial Defeat

BÉNÉDICTE SAVOY, TRANSLATED BY SUSANNE MEYER-ABICH

- Now in paperback!
- A major new history of how African nations, starting in the 1960s, sought to reclaim the art looted by Western colonial powers

For decades, African nations have fought for the return of countless works of art stolen during the colonial era and placed in Western museums. In Africa's Struggle for Its Art, Bénédicte Savoy brings to light this largely unknown but deeply important history.

One of the world's foremost experts on restitution and cultural heritage, Savoy investigates extensive, previously unpublished sources to reveal that the roots of the struggle extend much further back than prominent recent debates indicate, and that these efforts were covered up by myriad opponents.

ANCIENT CHRISTIANITIES

The First Five Hundred Years

PAULA FREDRIKSEN

- In Ancient Christianities, Paula Fredriksen traces the evolution of early Christianity – or rather, of early Christianities – through five centuries of Empire, mapping its pathways from the hills of Judea to the halls of Rome and Constantinople

The ancient Mediterranean teemed with gods. For centuries, a practical religious pluralism prevailed. How, then, did one particular god come to dominate the politics and piety of the late Roman Empire? In Ancient Christianities, Paula Fredriksen traces the evolution of early Christianity – or rather, of early Christianities – through five centuries of Empire, mapping its pathways from the hills of Judea to the halls of Rome and Constantinople. It is a story with a sprawling cast of characters: not only theologians, bishops, and emperors, but also gods and demons, angels and magicians, astrologers and ascetics, saints and heretics, aristocratic patrons and millenarian enthusiasts.

DELIBERATE EVIL

Nathaniel Hawthorne, Daniel Webster, and the 1830 Murder of a Salem Slave Trader

EDWARD J. RENEHAN JR.

- Written with full access to key primary source materials at the Peabody Essex Museum of Salem
- The court case was the inspiration for House of the Seven Gables by Hawthorne and Tell-Tale Heart by Edgar Allan Poe

The 1830 murder of wealthy slaver Joseph White shook all of Salem, Massachusetts. Soon the crime drew national attention when it was discovered that two of the conspirators came from Salem's influential Crowninshield family: a clan of millionaire shipowners, cabinet secretaries, and congressmen. A prosecution team led by famed Massachusetts senator Daniel Webster made the case even more newsworthy. Meanwhile, young Salem native Nathaniel Hawthorne – who knew several of the accused – observed and wrote.

BEYOND BANKS

Technology, Regulation, and the Future of Money

DAN AWREY

- Beyond Banks* sheds critical light on the important but too often dysfunctional relationship among technology, regulation, and money, and lays the foundations for a safer, more nimble, and more inclusive system of money and payments

How new technology is rapidly changing the nature of money and the way we pay.

A diverse and growing range of financial institutions and platforms – from PayPal and Venmo to WeChat, Alipay, and the brave new world of stablecoins – has harnessed new technology to disrupt the system of money and payments as we know it. Beyond Banks explains why this disruption holds out the promise of faster, cheaper, more convenient, and more secure payments, but also how it increasingly risks exposing consumers, businesses, and governments to the problem of bad money.

THE ENGLISH TABLE
Our Food Through the Ages
JILL NORMAN

‘This story that spans centuries and is yet intimate is a delightful and fascinating way of learning about this country and understanding our eclectic tastes today.’ – Claudia Roden, cookbook writer and cultural anthropologist

- A delectable journey through the culinary history of England from ancient times to today

The English Table is a delectable journey through the culinary history of England, from ancient times to the present day. The book sheds light on the evolution of English cuisine, which essentially was the food of the rich – the poor had to manage as best they could until the 20th century.

Unveiling the secrets hidden in period cookery books, from the earliest known scroll of recipes – the 14th-century Forme of Cury – to modern classics such as Jane Grigson’s English Food, each chapter is a culinary time capsule. Enriched with historical context, the book features carefully curated recipes from each era, offering a mouth-watering glimpse into the flavours that have shaped English culinary heritage.

THE ASSYRIANS
Lost Civilizations
PAUL COLLINS

- An accessible guide to the history of the Assyrian empire from the perspective of its powerful elites

At the height of its power around 660 BC, the Assyrian empire, centred in northern Iraq, wielded dominance from Egypt to Iran. This vast region was ruled by a series of kings who showcased their power by constructing magnificent palaces adorned with superlative sculptures depicting royal rituals, battles and hunts.

Established by military might, the empire thrived under administrators who relocated tens of thousands of people to serve the state, and scholars who interpreted divine will. This book relates the history of Assyria through the lens of its royal family and the officials who commissioned its superb buildings, art and literature, and laid the foundations for the later empires of Babylon and Persia.

EDINBURGH: A NEW HISTORY

ALISTAIR MOFFAT

- From prehistory to the present day, the story of Edinburgh is packed with incident and drama

As Scotland's capital since 1437, the city has witnessed many of the key events which have shaped the nation. But Edinburgh has always been much more than just a political centre. During the Enlightenment, it was one the intellectual powerhouses of Europe, and in the twentieth century it became the arts capital of the world with the founding of its many festivals. Finance, religion, education and industry are also important parts of the story.

Alistair Moffat explores these themes and many more, showing how the city has grown, changed and adapted over the centuries.

LEFT ADRIFT

What Happened to Liberal Politics

TIMOTHY SHENK

- Shenk tells the story of how leftwing parties fought (and often failed) to hold onto the working class while reinventing themselves over the last 50 years

A rivalry that remade the political world as we know it today.

Politics today doesn't look much like it did fifty years ago. Electorates that were once divided by economics –with blue-collar workers supporting leftwing parties while the wealthy trended right – are now more likely to split along cultural lines. Campaigns have gone high-tech, hoping to turn electioneering into a science. Meanwhile, a permanent class of political consultants has emerged, with teams of pollsters, message gurus, and field operatives. Taken together, all this amounts to a silent revolution that has transformed politics across much of the globe.

AMERICAN DARK AGE

Racial Feudalism and the Rise of Black Liberalism

KEIDRICK ROY

- How medieval-inspired racial feudalism reigned in early America and was challenged by Black liberal thinkers

Though the United States has been heralded as a beacon of democracy, many nineteenth-century Americans viewed their nation through the prism of the Old World. What they saw was a racially stratified country that reflected not the ideals of a modern republic but rather the remnants of feudalism. American Dark Age reveals how defenders of racial hierarchy embraced America's resemblance to medieval Europe and tells the stories of the abolitionists who exposed it as a glaring blemish on the national conscience.

Against those seeking to maintain what Frederick Douglass called an 'aristocracy of the skin', Keidrick Roy shows how a group of Black thinkers challenged the medievalism in their midst – and transformed the nation's founding liberal tradition.

THE MONUMENT'S END

Public Art and the Modern Republic

MARISA ANNE BASS

- How today's questions surrounding monuments and the ways we commemorate our past first arose in Rembrandt's time

Monuments occupy a controversial place in nations founded on principles of freedom and self-governance. It is no accident that when we think of monuments, we think of statues modeled on legacies of conquest, domination, and violence.

The Monument's End reveals how the artists, architects, poets, and scholars of the early modern Netherlands contended with the profound disconnect between the public monument and the ideals of republican government. Their experiences offer vital lessons about the making, reception, and destruction of monuments in the present.

We all decide to run for different reasons, whether it's to lose weight, improve health, or deal with stress in everyday life. But what is it that keeps you motivated to run, train, and race day after day? Professional runner and running coach Jeff Horowitz aims to answer this question in Think Like a Runner.

When you're just past mile 22 of a marathon and looking down the barrel of four more miserable miles of running until you can finally cross the finish line, it's not the science that keeps you going; it's something mental.

THE CRAFT OF BOULDERING
FRANCIS SANZARO

- Focuses on the crucial role of the mind in bouldering
- Realigns bouldering as a process that requires total awareness, rather than simply as a form of exercise or sport

From the author of The Zen of Climbing, this enlightening and essential book is an inspired collection of concise essays and reflections on the art of bouldering.

More than a sport, bouldering is a craft that demands equal fine-tuning of the mind and body. It calls for total commitment and attentiveness.

Climber, writer, and philosopher Francis Sanzaro brings the discipline into conversation with other sports and arts including architecture, dance, skateboarding, painting, parkour, martial arts, and gymnastics.

THE ORGANIC LINE
Toward a Topology of Modernism
IRENE V. SMALL

- A major rethinking of twentieth-century abstract art mobilised by the work of Brazilian artist Lygia Clark

What would it mean to treat an interval of space as a line, thus drawing an empty void into a constellation of art and meaning-laden things?

In this book, Irene Small elucidates the signal discovery of the Brazilian artist Lygia Clark in 1954: a fissure of space between material elements that Clark called 'the organic line'. For much of the history of art, Clark's discovery, much like the organic line, has escaped legibility. Once recognised, however, the line has seismic repercussions for rethinking foundational concepts such as mark, limit, surface, and edge. A spatial cavity that binds discrepant entities together, the organic line transforms planes into flexible topologies, borders into membranes, and interstices into points of connection.

SHAKESPEARE'S TRAGIC ART

RHODRI LEWIS

- A new account of Shakespearean tragedy as a response to life in an uncertain world

In Shakespeare's Tragic Art, Rhodri Lewis offers a powerfully original reassessment of tragedy as Shakespeare wrote it – of what drew him toward tragic drama, what makes his tragedies distinctive, and why they matter.

After reconstructing tragic theory and practice as Shakespeare and his contemporaries knew them, Lewis considers in detail each of Shakespeare's tragedies from Titus Andronicus to Coriolanus. He argues that these plays are a series of experiments whose greatness lies in their author's nerve-straining determination to represent the experience of living in a world that eludes rational analysis.

The Maghreb – the region that today encompasses Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia and Libya – is a region apart within the larger Muslim and Arab world. Today the focus of popular uprisings for democracy and participation, it underwent long periods of colonisation and anti-colonial nationalist resistance, both peaceful and militant.

To understand the nature of today's developments in North Africa we need fully to appreciate the tumultuous history of the region and how its four discrete countries followed different trajectories, some marked by a continuity of social and political structures in both the colonial era and as independent states.

FERNANDO PESSOA BARTHOLOMEW RYAN

- A critical biography of the modernist Portuguese writer

As a young man Fernando Pessoa wrote 'be plural like the universe'. Staying true to this, he went on to invent over 100 fictional alter-egos, which he called heteronyms.

This philosophical biography navigates Pessoa's early days in Lisbon and South Africa, reveals a philosopher-poet and pioneer of Portuguese modernism, and delves into the birth of Pessoa's heteronymic universe. Bartholomew Ryan describes Pessoa's writings on evolving radical politics, his ventures into esoteric realms, and his expertise in astrology.

The book unravels Pessoa's real and imaginary relationships, and explores his unfinished prose masterpiece, The Book of Disquiet. Pessoa's revolutionary concepts of identity and self-multiplicity have become more widely accessible and relatable today due to their increasing occurrence in modern society.

In education, media, nonprofits, and beyond, members of this elite work primarily with words, ideas, images, and data, and are very likely to identify as allies of antiracist, feminist, LGBTQ, and other progressive causes.

Despite the effort that went into producing the work, at a time when 'conchophilia', or shell fancying, was at its height, Perry's Conchology all but disappeared without a trace in the scientific literature, apparently actively suppressed by the leading conchologists of the day and then cruelly mocked for decades afterwards.

WHAT THE TREES SEE

A wander through millennia of natural history in Australia
DAVE WITTY

- An eloquent meditation on the remarkable story that Australia’s trees tell us about our past and our future
- Bespoke small hardback featuring interspersed B&W drawings

Shortlisted, Mark & Evette Moran Nib Literary Award 2024

The trees around us – some we may walk past every day – tell a story. The mallee box by the twelfth hole of North Adelaide Golf Course evokes a time when Adelaide was clothed in mallee scrub and desert senna. Brisbane’s remnant blue gum, growing by the botanic gardens, indicates a time when the city was once jungle. The river red gums of Melbourne bear the scars of Aboriginal craftsmanship. Mangroves, Leichhardt trees, acacias, eucalypts, foxtails...together, they inspire a narrative that jumps from Burke and Wills to sugar slaves, Empress Josephine to Johnny Flinders.

THEY CALLED IT PEACE

Worlds of Imperial Violence
LAUREN BENTON

- A sweeping account of how small wars shaped global order in the age of empires

Shortlisted for the Cundill History Prize 2024

Imperial conquest and colonisation depended on pervasive raiding, slaving, and plunder. European empires amassed global power by asserting a right to use unilateral force at their discretion. They Called It Peace is a panoramic history of how these routines of violence remapped the contours of empire and reordered the world from the fifteenth to the twentieth centuries.

In an account spanning from Asia to the Americas, Lauren Benton shows how imperial violence redefined the very nature of war and peace. Instead of preparing lasting peace, fragile truces ensured an easy return to war.
