

QUANTIFYING DIETS OF WILDLIFE AND FISH

Practical and Applied Methods

EDITED BY MICHAEL C. CALVER, NEIL R. LONERAGAN

Bringing together knowledge from terrestrial and aquatic systems, Quantifying Diets of Wildlife and Fish explores traditional approaches to studying animal diets as well as newer methods such as chemical tracers and eDNA techniques.

Quantifying Diets of Wildlife and Fish presents different techniques available to study animal diets. Ecologists determine animal diets to build natural history knowledge, test hypotheses in ecological theory and make informed management decisions for important ecosystems. Many researchers use techniques traditionally applied to the animals they study, rather than techniques with the greatest potential for the aims of each project. In an effort to encourage researchers to consider new approaches, this book focuses on the techniques, rather than on particular groups of organisms or specific environments.

With contributions from leading ecologists, chapters explore experimental design, observational techniques (including new technologies), stomach contents and faecal analysis, eDNA, tracers and stable isotopes. They also cover the latest multivariate methods of analyses suitable for describing animal diets and feeding relationships, as well as testing hypotheses relevant to ecological theory, environmental management and biological conservation. The expert knowledge provided will encourage readers to look beyond the boundaries of their specialties, assist in testing important hypotheses and provide insights into management problems. The examples in this book cover a range of vertebrates and invertebrates, as well as different environments, to open these methods up for novice ecologists and stimulate lateral thinking in more experienced researchers.

AUSTRALIAN WOMEN'S HISTORICAL PHOTOGRAPHY

Other Times, Other Views

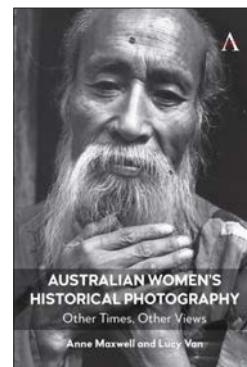

ANNE MAXWELL, LUCY VAN

Australian Women's Historical Photography: Other Times, Other Views* examines the works of six women photographers against the historical backdrop of settler violence towards Indigenous Australians, the First Women's Movement, the Great War of 1914-1918, Australia's imperial occupation of New Guinea, the rise of anti-Western sentiment in China and debates about photography's status as an art form.

Women's works from the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries have been down-played or even ignored in existing accounts of Australia's cultural history, and this study is aimed at rectifying this situation. At the same time, the book demonstrates why amateur works are just as important as commercial works to our understanding of the past.

THE ORIGINS OF SOCIAL CARE AND SOCIAL WORK

Creating a Global Future

MARK HENRICKSON

Addressing current debates in international social work about the relevance of different perspectives, this thought-provoking book will allow practitioners and scholars to consider and create a global future for Social Work.

North American and European notions of helping - or managing - poor and marginalised people have deep roots in religious texts and traditions, which continue to influence contemporary social policy and social work practice in ways which many do not realise.

Bringing together interdisciplinary scholarship, Mark Henrickson argues that it essential we understand and critique social work's origins, in order to work out what we want to retain, and what must change, if we are to achieve the vision of a truly global profession.

THE ELEMENTS OF VISUAL GRAMMAR

A Designer's Guide for Writers, Scholars, and Professionals

ANGELA RIECHERS

A colour-illustrated introduction to the basic principles of visual language that every content creator and consumer needs to know.

The right images capture attention, pique curiosity, and inspire viewers to stick around long enough to read any accompanying text. Nearly everyone today needs to use or understand images in communications of all kinds, from the most formal professional publication to the most casual social media post, and knowing the basics of visual language is essential for content creators and consumers alike. Award-winning art director and design professor Angela Riechers offers a flexible set of principles and best practices for selecting images that work — and using them in the most persuasive way.

LEBANON AND THE SPLIT OF LIFE

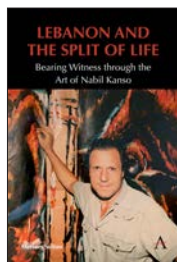

Bearing Witness through the Art of Nabil Kanso
MERIAM SOLTAN

This scholarly biography traces the life and art of Lebanese-American neo-expressionist, Nabil Kanso (1940-2019).

It explores key moments across the artist's transnational career by foregrounding his longest-running, internationally toured exhibition, the Journey of Art for Peace (1985-1993). More specifically, it traces the historical trajectory of his 10' x 28' mural-scale painting, Lebanon, from the circumstances of its production at the height of the Lebanese Civil War in 1983, through its short-lived exhibition history with the Split of Life series in the few years that followed.

The book scaffolds an understanding of the artist as an activist and works toward offering distinctly spatial readings of his painterly practice.

PIERO DI COSIMO
Eccentricity and Delight
SARAH BLAKE MCHAM

This book is an original, cogent account of the singular Florentine painter Piero di Cosimo (1462-1522), providing a concise survey of his life within his social, cultural and literary backdrop.

Delving into the artist's deliberately idiosyncratic life, the book shows how Piero chose to live in squalor, and eat nothing but boiled eggs, which (according to Vasari's famous Lives of the Artists) he cooked fifty at a time in his painting glue. This book shows how the artist became the favourite of sophisticated patrons, who were eager to decorate their residences with pagan Greco-Roman mythological subjects. Piero's vividly imagined portrayals led to his cornering the market on these commissions. At the same time his more orthodox, but never ordinary, religious altarpieces and private devotional paintings also won the admiration of leading Florentine families.

JULIUS BISSIER UND RICHARD BAMPI

Das Freiburger Keramikbild
MARIA SCHÜLY

In the 1950s, a large number of internationally renowned artists created pictures made of ceramic.

In 1956, in close collaboration with the artist and ceramicist Richard Bampi, Julius Bissier developed a ceramic work for the University of Freiburg. The abstract composition on a wall in the city centre measures over 19.5 metres long by 2.6 metres high (64 x 8.5 feet). Its restoration and relaunch is occasion to examine more closely the story of its genesis. The distinctiveness of the artwork becomes clear against a backdrop of the cultural politics oriented on France in Freiburg after 1945. Unexpected parallels in contemporaneous ceramic murals are revealed and make the Freiburg ceramic picture a unique work in the post-war art of Germany. Text in German.

IN ITALY

EDITED BY LAURIE OLIN,
PABLO MANDEL

Artists and designers have recorded places, people, and life in drawings and sketchbooks for centuries.

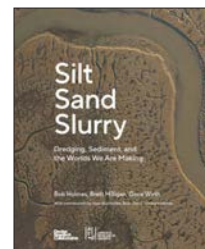

Over the past fifty years, Laurie Olin, one of America's most distinguished landscape architects, has recorded aspects of life and the environment in Italy: its cities and countryside, streets and cafes, ancient ruins, art, architecture, people, villas, and gardens — civic and domestic, humble to grand, things of interest to his designer's eye — taking the time to see carefully. Rome in its seasons, agriculture in Umbria and Tuscany, trees, food, and fountains, all are noted over the years in watercolour or pen and ink. Originally made in the personal pleasure of merely being there as well as self-education, this selection from many sketchbooks and drawings is accompanied with introductory notes and remarks for different regions including Rome, Turin, Venice, Tuscany and more.

SILT SAND SLURRY

Dredging, Sediment, and the Worlds We Are Making

ROB HOLMES

Sediment is an unseen infrastructure that shapes and enables modern life.

Silt is scooped from sea floors to deepen underwater highways for container ships. It is diverted from river basins to control flooding. It is collected, sorted, managed, and moved to reshape deltas, marshes, and beaches. Anthropogenic action now moves more sediment annually than 'natural' geologic processes — yet this global reshaping of the earth's surface is rarely-discussed and poorly-understood.

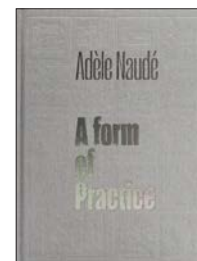

In four thematic text chapters, four geographic visual studies, and a concluding essay, we demonstrate why sediment matters now more than ever, given our contemporary context of sea level rise, environmental change, and spatial inequality.

Embodied Democracy in the Global South

ELIZABETH MILLS

Drawing on long-term ethnographic studies, this book centres on women who live with HIV in South Africa, Brazil and India and who have fought, through transnational activist networks, to access essential medicines through their country’s public health system.

The book traces the path of the individual to the national and transnational to demonstrate the political and embodied ramifications of policies governing AIDs medicine on individual lives. Founded on two decades of ethnographic research, including participant observation, participatory photography and film and journey mapping, the book shows the ways in which HIV-positive women have acted on national and global policies in their efforts to access necessary medication and treatments.

EMOTIONS IN CRISIS

Youth and Social Change in Spain

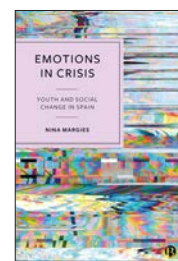

NINA MARGIES

We usually speak of crisis in numbers: decline in purchasing power, rise in unemployment rates or decreasing levels of life satisfaction. But what do people feel when their supposed securities for their futures crumble?

The stories of the young adults after the 2008 economic crisis in Spain provide us with answers. This book shows how their loss of future prospects led to feelings of uncertainty, anxiety, frustration and resentment, and how they dealt with these emotions.

Combining the sociology of emotions with Bourdieu’s practice theory, Emotions in Crisis analyses the impact of structural changes in society on individual and collective emotions.

POLITICS OF THE GIFT

Towards a Convivial Society
FRANK ADLOFF

At the heart of capitalism lies the idea of ‘homo economicus’: an ever-rational human being motivated by self-interest which arguably leads societies to economic prosperity.

Drawing on French sociologist Marcel Mauss’ influential theory of ‘the gift’, Frank Adloff shatters this fallacy to show mutual trust is the only glue that holds societies together; people are giving beings and they can cooperate for the benefit of all when the logic of all when the logic of maximising personal gain in capitalism is broken.

Acknowledging the role of women, nature and workers in the Global South in transforming society, this book proposes a politics of conviviality for global and environmental justice as an alternative to the pursuit of profit, growth and consumption.

CATALAN CINEMA

The Barcelona Film School and the New Avant-Garde

EDITED BY ANTON PUJOL, JAUME MARTI-OLIVELLA

Catalan Cinema offers a theoretical reading of the most relevant cinematic productions to emerge from Catalonia in the last twenty years.

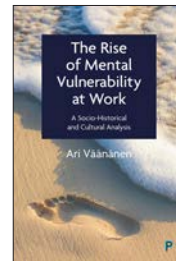

The essays in this collection examine cinema in relation to the Escola de Barcelona (The Barcelona School), a group of cinema directors that drew inspiration from British pop-art, Free Cinema, and the Nouvelle Vague to create works that defied and challenged the Franco dictatorship. Highlighting the aesthetic, social, and political elements of Catalan cinematography, contributors to this volume explore what young directors have in common with works created by more notable directors such as Joaquim Jordà, Jacinto Esteva, Jordi Grau, and Pere Portabella.

THE RISE OF MENTAL VULNERABILITY AT WORK

A Socio-Historical and Cultural Analysis

ARI VÄÄNÄNEN

Since the 1960s, a major mental health crisis has emerged among Western working populations. By analysing the development of various occupational cultures and using extensive data sources, this book captures the history of mental vulnerability in working life.

Through a study spanning several decades, the book develops a new understanding of how mental vulnerability has evolved through changes to our working lives and socio-cultural being. It shows how our current knowledge about work, disability and the psyche is influenced by our time and provides intertwining conceptual frameworks and alternatives to current canonised knowledge about mental health in working life.

ANALYSING THE HISTORY OF BRITISH SOCIAL WELFARE

Compassion, Coercion and Beyond

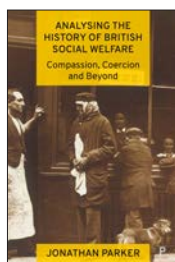

JONATHAN PARKER

This book offers insights into the development of social welfare policies by exploring the interconnections between policies and practice throughout history.

It challenges tacitly accepted arguments that favour particular approaches to welfare, such as conditionality and eligibility. It provides examples of enduring social assumptions which influence the way we perform social welfare, such as the equivocal position of women in social welfare and the unintended consequences of reforms such as Universal Credit.

By identifying continuities in welfare policy, practice and thought, it offers the potential for the development of new thinking, policy making and practice.

CRIME, JUSTICE AND COVID-19

EDITED BY CHRISTOPHER KAY, STEPHEN CASE

This edited collection offers the first system-wide account of the impact of COVID-19 on crime and justice in England and Wales.

It provides a critical discussion of the challenges faced by criminal justice agencies (prison, probation, youth justice, courts, police), professionals and service users in adapting to the extraordinary pressures of the pandemic on policy, practice and lived experience.

The text integrates first-hand narrative and artistic accounts from a variety of key stakeholders experiencing the Criminal Justice System (CJS). The editors recommend a range of evidence-based policy and practice improvements, not only in terms of planning for future pandemics, but also those that will benefit the CJS and its stakeholders in the longer term.

THE CRIME DATA HANDBOOK

EDITED BY LAURA HUEY AND DAVID BUIL-GIL

Crime research has grown substantially over the past decade, with a rise in evidence-informed approaches to criminal justice, statistics-driven decision-making and predictive analytics. The fuel that has driven this growth is data — and one of its most pressing challenges is the lack of research on the use and interpretation of data sources.

This accessible, engaging book closes that gap for researchers, practitioners and students. International researchers and crime analysts discuss the strengths, perils and opportunities of the data sources and tools now available and their best use in informing sound public policy and criminal justice practice.

TRAFFICKING CHAINS

Modern Slavery in Society
SYLVIA WALBY, KAREN SHIRE

This book offers a theory of trafficking and modern slavery with implications for policy. Despite economic development, modern slavery persists all around the world. The issue is not only one of crime but the regulation of the economy, better welfare and social protections.

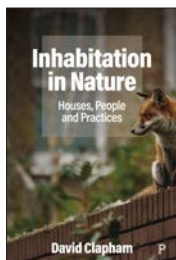

Going beyond polarised debates on the sex trade, an original empirical analysis shows the importance of profit-taking. Although individual experience matters, the root causes lie in intersecting regimes of inequality of gender regimes, capitalism, and the legacies of colonialism. This book shows the importance of coercion and the societal complexities that perpetuate modern slavery.

HIGHER EDUCATION IN SMALL ISLANDS

Challenging the Geographies of Centrality and Remoteness

EDITED BY ROSIE ALEXANDER, HOLLY HENDERSON

Pinpointing the intersecting concerns of higher education studies and island studies, this book interrogates the role of higher education development in addressing common small island concerns.

It demonstrates how small island contexts disrupt normative discourses, understandings and practices in education policy, curricula and experiences.

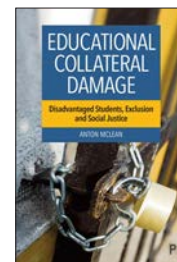

‘A refreshingly new and specific point of view on higher education, foregrounding small island contexts that seldom feature in our imaginations and discussions.’ — Mikateko Mathebula, University of the Free State

EDUCATIONAL COLLATERAL DAMAGE

Disadvantaged Students, Exclusion and Social Justice

ANTON MCLEAN

Why do disadvantaged students continue to get a poor deal as they progress through England’s education system?

Challenging orthodox thinking about school exclusion, this book powerfully advocates for a fairer education system for disadvantaged students. It argues that the current conceptualisation of ‘exclusion’ — physically removing the student from the school — is insufficient. This approach fails to recognise the layers of exclusion that these students encounter. Students can be excluded within their schools (inner exclusion), not just from school (outer exclusion). Drawing on student experiences of exclusion and the perspectives of senior leaders, this book demonstrates how we can create a fairer education system for disadvantaged students.

STRATEGIC MANAGEMENT OF THE TRANSITION TO PUBLIC SECTOR CO-CREATION

EDITED BY JACOB TORFING, EWAN FERLIE, TINA JUKIC, EDOARDO ONGARO

As the practices of public governance are rapidly changing, so must the theoretical frameworks for understanding the creation of efficient, effective and democratic governance solutions.

First published as a special issue of Policy & Politics journal, this book explores the role of strategic management, digitalisation and generative platforms in encouraging the co-creation of innovative public value outcomes. It considers why we must transform the public sector to drive co-creation and the importance of integrating different theoretical strands when studying processes, barriers and outcomes.

FRACTURED UNION

Politics, Sovereignty and the Fight to Save the UK
MICHAEL KENNY

The question of the United Kingdom’s survival, once taken for granted, now looms large in British politics. This book brings to life the historical roots of a contemporary crisis, revealing the assumptions underlying how politicians and bureaucrats make sense of the Union.

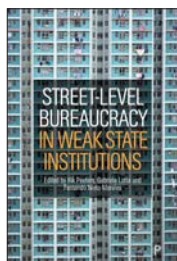

Why has the political class struggled to engage productively with devolution? Has the growing disenchantment of English voters with a detached central government influenced how MPs and civil servants regard the UK’s territorial integrity?

Fractured Union offers a vivid account of the country’s gradual loss of unity, and illuminates the forces and pressures which will shape the future of its nations and peoples.

STREET-LEVEL BUREAUCRACY IN WEAK STATE INSTITUTIONS

EDITED BY RIK PEETERS, GABRIELA LOTTA, FERNANDO NIETO-MORALES

In this book, street-level bureaucracy scholars from South Asia, sub-Saharan Africa, the Middle East, and Latin America analyse the conditions that shape frontline work and citizens’ everyday experience of the state.

Institutional factors such as political clientelism, resource scarcity, social inequality, job insecurity, and systemic corruption affect the way street-level bureaucrats enforce rules and implement policies. Inadvertently, they end up implementing inequities in citizens’ access to rights and services — despite efforts to repair organisational deficiencies and broker relations between vulnerable citizens and a distant state.

UNDERSTANDING AND IMPROVING PUBLIC MANAGEMENT REFORMS

THOMAS ELSTON

Why do top-down reforms to public services so often over-promise and under-deliver?

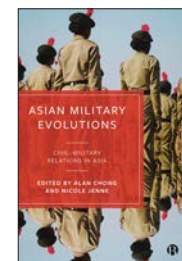

Using five concepts from psychology, economics and organisational sociology, Thomas Elston addresses this pressing question of good governance.

Focusing on the practical challenge of how to undertake better public management reforms, he questions the assumption that failure typically occurs because of poor reform implementation. Instead, he shows how reforms are often badly designed from the outset, being fashion-led, more focused more on fixing errors than exploiting opportunities and ignoring implicit costs of change. This concise, practically-orientated work employs diverse examples to propose ways to improve the design of public sector reform programmes — and the services that citizens receive.

ASIAN MILITARY EVOLUTIONS

Civil–Military Relations in Asia
EDITED BY ALAN CHONG, NICOLE JENNE

This book explores civil–military relations in Asia. With chapters on individual countries in the region, it provides a comprehensive account of the range of contemporary Asian practices under conditions of abridged democracy, soft authoritarianism or complete totalitarianism.

Through its analysis, the book argues that civil–military relations in Asia ought to be examined under the concept of ‘Asian military evolutions’. It demonstrates that while Asian militaries have tried to incorporate standard, Western-derived frameworks of civil–military relations, it has been necessary to adapt such frameworks to suit local circumstances. The book reveals how this has in turn led to creative fusions and novel changes in making civil–military relations an asset to furthering national security objectives.

DIGITAL FRONTIERS IN GENDER AND SECURITY

Bringing Critical Perspectives Online

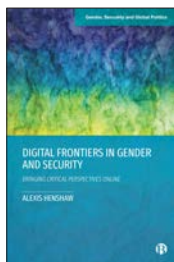

ALEXIS HENSHAW

Exploring the digital frontiers of feminist international relations, this book investigates how gender can be mainstreamed into discourse about technology and security.

With a focus on big data, communications technology, social media, cryptocurrency and decentralised finance, the book explores the ways in which technology presents sites for gender-based violence. Crucially, it examines potential avenues for resistance at these sites, especially regarding the actions of major tech companies, surveillance by repressive governments and attempts to use the Global South as a laboratory for new interventions.

The book draws valuable insights which will be essential to researchers in International Relations, Security Studies and Feminist Security Studies.

THE ESSENCE OF INTERSTATE LEADERSHIP

Debating Moral Realism

EDITED BY YAN XUETONG, FANG YUANYUAN

Bringing together eminent International Relations (IR) scholars from China and the West, this book examines moral realism from a range of different perspectives.

The first section of the book is written by Chinese scholars and dedicated to debates about how moral realism relates to traditional schools of IR theory. The latter portion, provided by Western contributors, critically investigates both the universal and practical values of moral realism. Through its analyses, it verifies the robustness of moral realism in IR theory.

CIVIL SOCIETY IN AN AGE OF UNCERTAINTY

Institutions, Governance and Existential Challenges

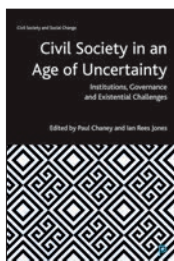

EDITED BY PAUL CHANEY, IAN REES JONES

This book explores how the uncertainties of the 21st century present existential challenges to civil society.

These include changing modes of governance (through devolution and Brexit), austerity, migration, growing digital divides, issues of (mis)trust and democratic confidence, welfare delivery and the COVID-19 pandemic and the contemporary threat to minority languages and cultures.

Presenting original empirical findings, this book brings together core strands of social theory to provide a new way of understanding existential challenges to the form and function of civil society. It highlights pressing social issues and transferable lessons that will inform policy and practice in today's age of uncertainty.

TRANSNATIONAL COMMUNITY MOBILIZATION AND TRANSFORMATION, 2010-2020

ABDULKADIR OSMAN FARAH

The world is increasingly complex and ever changing. One of these changes involves the increasing trans-nationalisation by diverse sociopolitical groups/ institutions, including the state, the corporate, as well as different transnational communities, including professionalised social groups.

Such groups also include transnational communities with migrant-refugee history and background. These communities often link their local host environments with their homeland origins in multiple ways. They often do such activities through diversified, transnationally situational and context-based sociopolitical engagements and mobilisations toward and with multiple social, political, and economic actors.

GLOBAL NEOLIBERALISM AND THE ALTERNATIVES

From Social Democracy to State Capitalisms

DAVID LANE

The twentieth century was an era of socialist revolutionary transformations and significant social democratic reforms.

By the twenty-first century, these socialist inspired movements have largely disappeared, their ideologies have been disavowed and their institutions dismantled and replaced by global neoliberal capitalism.

This book explores the social, political and economic forces driving these movements in Western Europe and the USSR, explaining their initial triumphs and how they eventually faltered under the influence of global neoliberalism. David Lane examines the nature and appeal of neoliberal capitalism and analyses current social and political proposals for its reform or replacement.

OBSERVING DARK INNOVATION

After Neoliberal Tools and Techniques

RYAN T. MACNEIL

Why does scholarship on innovation fixate on certain classes of technology? Could our research tools and techniques be concealing as much as they reveal?

Ryan MacNeil shows how the common instrumentalities of innovation research carry neoliberal market biases. He calls for critical scholars to examine how we observe and understand innovation, offering ways forward to deconstruct and reform disciplinary conventions.

This book makes a valuable contribution to critical management and science and technology studies by shedding light on the 'dark matter' of innovation. This will be an important resource for scholars and practitioners interested in disruptive ideas about innovation.

REMAKING MONEY FOR A SUSTAINABLE FUTURE

Money Commons

ESTER BARINAGA MARTÍN

Money is central to capitalism and to our many sustainability crises. Could we remake money so as to advance sustainable economies and fair societies? A growing number of scholars, politicians, and activists think we can, and they are doing it from the bottom up.

This book examines how grassroots groups, municipalities and radical cryptoentrepreneurs are remaking money by designing and organising complementary currencies. It argues that in their novel ideas and governance practices lie the key for building green and inclusive economies.

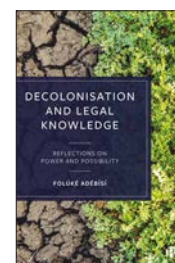

Engaging imaginatively with the future of money, this accessible book will appeal to anyone interested in constructing a more sustainable and just world.

DECOLONISATION AND LEGAL KNOWLEDGE

Reflections on Power and Possibility

FOLÚKÉ ADÉBÍŚÍ

The law is heavily implicated in creating, maintaining, and reproducing racialised hierarchies which bring about and preserve acute global disparities and injustices.

This essential book provides an examination of the meanings of decolonisation and explores how this examination can inform teaching, researching, and practising of law.

It explores the ways in which the foundations of law are entangled in colonial thought and in its [re]production of ideas of commodification of bodies and space-time. Thus, it is an exploration of the ways in which we can use theories and praxes of decolonisation to produce legal knowledge for flourishing futures.

RACIAL JUSTICE AND THE LIMITS OF LAW

BHARAT MALKANI

Racial justice is never far from the headlines. The Windrush Scandal, the toppling of the statue of Edward Colston and racism within the police have all recently captured the public's attention and generated legal action. But, although the ideals of the legal system such as fairness and equality, seem allied to the struggle for racial justice, all too often campaigners have been let down by the system.

This book examines law's troubled relationship with racial justice. It explains that law's historical role in creating and perpetuating racial injustices continues to stifle its ability to advance the cause of racial justice today. Both a lawyer's guide to anti-racism and an anti-racist's guide to legal action, it unites these perspectives to help both groups understand how to use the law to tackle racial injustices.

LOW-PAID EU MIGRANT WORKERS

The House, The Street, The Town
CATHERINE BARNARD, FIONA COSTELLO, SARAH FRASER BUTLIN

This book offers an in-depth exploration of the lives of EU migrant workers in the UK following Brexit and COVID-19.

Drawing on a longitudinal study, the book delves into the legal problems migrant workers face and sheds much-needed light on the hidden interactions between the law and communities around issues such as employment, housing, welfare and health. Through personal narratives and insights gathered from interviews, it reveals how (clustered) legal problems arise, are resolved and often bypass formal legal resolution pathways.

This is an invaluable resource that provides a rich picture of everyday life for migrant workers in the UK and highlights the vital role of NGOs working to support them.

MODERN SLAVERY IN GLOBAL CONTEXT

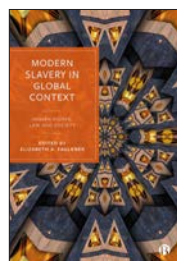

Human Rights, Law and Society
EDITED BY ELIZABETH FAULKNER

This thought-provoking collection brings together academics from a range of disciplines to examine modern slavery.

It illustrates how different disciplinary positions, methodologies and perspectives form and clash together through a kaleidoscopic view and forms a unique insight into critical modern slavery studies. Providing a platform to critique the legal, ideological and political responses to the issue, experts interrogate the construct of modern slavery and the anti-trafficking discourse which have dominated contemporary responses to and understandings of exploitation.

Drawing from real-world examples across the world, this is a vital contribution to the study of modern slavery.

MANAGING RISK DURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC

Global Policies, Narratives and Practices
ANDY ALASZEWSKI

The past 30 years have seen risk become a major field of study, most recently with the COVID-19 pandemic positioning it at the centre of public awareness, yet there is limited understanding of how risk can and should be used in policy making.

This book provides an accessible guide to the key elements of risk in policy making, including its role in rhetoric to legitimise decisions and choices.

Using risk as a framework, it examines how policy makers in a range of countries responded to the COVID-19 pandemic and explains why some were more successful than others.
