An Introduction to the Buprestidae

GEOFF WILLIAMS, KEVIN MITCHELL, ALLEN M. SUNDHOLM

Australian Jewel Beetles: An Introduction to the Buprestidae is a comprehensive overview of Australia's buprestid fauna. It presents taxonomic, ecological and biogeographic information for all Australian genera, and their association with the world's Buprestidae more widely. It explores plant-evolution dependencies, as well as threats and conservation for this diverse fauna.

The authors bring together their extensive experience and understanding of the wealth of Australia's largely endemic species, supported by spectacular images and discussion of photographic techniques. The book offers insight into the lives of significant past buprestid taxonomists and field naturalists.

Australian Jewel Beetles will be valued by professional biologists and ecologists, as well as entomologists and naturalists in Australia and abroad.

PATHWAYS

A Journey Through the Innovative Images of the Acclaimed Photographer G. B. Smith

G. B. SMITH, FOREWORD BY LAWTON W. FITT

G. B. Smith's book, Pathways takes the viewer through a journey of each image, using light to illuminate patterns and distilling the subject down to its uncluttered form.

This innovative approach transcends a wide range of subjects and genres and reflects his traditional photographic heritage of plate cameras and exclusively black-and-white imagery. The joy of his imagery is in fact deeply embedded in his ability to present the canvas in its essential form. His images bring solace to our psyche constantly overwhelmed by the overstimulation of colour, and they encourage us to appreciate the essence of the subject in a new and releasing way. Out of less comes more in this gorgeously produced volume.

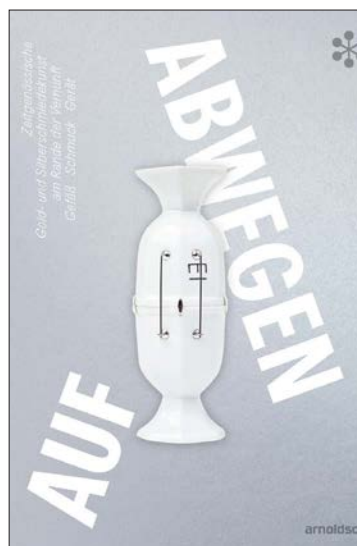

Pathways is also a metaphor for the photographer's personal artistic journey that began almost fifty years ago as a teenager and has taken a somewhat circuitous route, coming back full circle to embrace his original photographic passions.

The book features selected works from several of G. B. Smith's current collection, including many of his more recent award-winning images. All of the author's proceeds are being donated to The Breast Cancer Alliance charity.

The Art of Gold- and Silversmithing on the Edge of Reason: Hollowware-Jewelry-Utensils
ELLEN MAURER ZILIOLOI, CORNELIE HOLZACH

Contemporary gold and silversmithing encompasses a vast range. Increasingly, a daring, (self-)critical, and inventive scene is edging its way to the fore, focusing on challenging the innovative expansion of classical forms and motifs of jewellery, vessels, and hollowware.

Purpose, function and our normative understanding of beauty are placed on a new footing through experiments with materials and performative stagings. Socially relevant considerations and artistic references inform the objects' designs and are an invitation to an entertaining yet recondite 'tour de plaisir' featuring some 150 works by 28 artists.

TODAY IS ALWAYS YESTERDAY

Contemporary Brazilian Art

MICHAEL ASBURY

Today Is Always Yesterday* explores the historical constructs underlying contemporary art in Brazil.

Michael Asbury, through his study of the South American nation's colonial and post-colonial condition, argues that art can not only illustrate history but activate it. The colours of the flag, a national emblem saturated with symbolism and which has become central to the culture wars of recent years, become devices to thematically structure the five chapters of the book. Asbury shows how artists have responded to cultural engagements and appropriations, and examines art's role in unravelling Brazil's foundational myths and its projected image as a racial melting pot. Richly illustrated, this book presents a compelling account of contemporary debates in Brazilian art.

DEAD SOULS

Desire and Memory in the Jewelry of Keith Lewis
DAMIAN SKINNER, KEITH LEWIS

Since the late 1980s, American jeweller Keith Lewis has been consistently tackling issues of Queer identity and politics in his figurative and narrative jewellery, including a groundbreaking series of memorial jewels addressing the impact of the AIDS crisis on himself and his community.

Often witty, sometimes shocking, frequently erotic, and surprisingly moving, his jewellery is an act of remembering and witnessing, and a joyous assertion that desire and pleasure, wonderful ends in themselves, can collapse historical distance and connect the past and the present.

LUDWIG MIES VAN DER ROHE

Villa Wolf in Gubin: History and Reconstruction
EDITED BY DIETRICH NEUMANN

Villa Wolf in Guben (now Gubin), built between 1925 and 1927, was Ludwig Mies van der Rohe's first decidedly modern building.

The residential building was destroyed at the end of the Second World War and in the immediate post-war period. The building practice of Mies van der Rohe — who is internationally known for his visionary glass skyscrapers and concrete buildings — remained conventional for a long time.

This volume presents the history of Villa Wolf in Gubin and documents the recent excavation of the basement as well as the graphic reconstruction as a prerequisite for the building's reconstruction.

JOHN FORD'S AMERICA

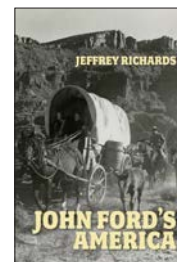

JEFFREY RICHARDS

By the time of his death in 1973, John Ford was probably the most celebrated director of Hollywood's golden age.

The winner of four best director Oscars, he was the first filmmaker to be awarded his country's highest civilian honour, the Medal of Freedom, and the man chosen by the American Film Institute to receive its first life achievement award.

In his work, Ford returned regularly to the same themes, employed the same actors and had a visual style that was personal and distinctive. This volume explores his preoccupations throughout his long, garlanded career, showing how he attempted to come to terms with American history, with how America kept changing its relationship with history and with how many of the myths of the 'West' were just that — myths.

DAVID SIMON'S AMERICAN CITY

MIKKEL JENSEN, SERIES
EDITED BY JONATHAN BIGNELL, SARAH CARDWELL

David Simon's American city examines the television series created by influential showrunner David Simon. The book argues that Simon's main theme is the state of the contemporary American city and that all of his series (barring one about the Iraq War) explore different facets of the metropolis.

Each series offers distinctly different visions of the American city, but taken together they represent a sustained and intricate exploration of urban problems in modern America. From deindustrialisation in The Wire and residential segregation in Show Me a Hero to post-Katrina New Orleans in Treme and the transformation of the urban core in The Deuce, David Simon's American City traces the urban through-line in Simon's body of work.

SAMUEL RICHARDSON
AS ANONYMOUS EDITOR AND PRINTER

Recycling Texts for the Book Market

JOHN A. DUSSINGER

Offers a comprehensive account of Samuel Richardson's numerous editorial interventions in producing books and pamphlets from his press.

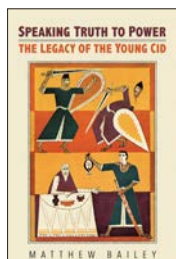

From the beginning of his career as printer, Samuel Richardson consistently worked as an anonymous editor and compiler while manufacturing books from his press. While setting type for his many newspapers and journals, this major London printer was mainly concerned about generating a readership and thus invoked all the tricks of his trade to arouse interest in his readers. His long experience as anonymous editor prepared him in launching fictional 'histories' told through multiple voices that conceal or underplay a central author's authority.

SPEAKING TRUTH TO POWER

The Legacy of the Young Cid
MATTHEW BAILEY

Emerging from a richly diverse oral narrative tradition circa 1300, the heroic and dynamic tale of the young Cid eclipses the uninspired, matter-of-fact narration of the reign of Fernando I into which it is incorporated.

In its analysis of the Mocedades de Rodrigo, the epic poem of Cid's youth, Speaking Truth to Power identifies the narrative cohesion and the aesthetic principles that elevated the story of the young Cid to its place of prominence among the epic narratives of medieval Spain.

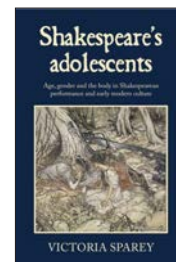

Matthew Bailey highlights the various textual versions of the narrative that propelled the young Cid's unparalleled popularity, tracing this vibrant narrative tradition across time.

SHAKESPEARE'S ADOLESCENTS

Age, gender and the body in Shakespearean performance and early modern culture

VICTORIA SPAREY

Shakespeare's Adolescents examines the representation of adolescent characters in Shakespeare's plays.

Using early modern medical knowledge and an understanding of contemporary theatrical practices, the book unpacks complexities that surrounded the cultural and theatrical representations of 'signs' associated with an individual's physical maturation. Each chapter explores the implications of different 'signs' of puberty, in verbal cues, facial adornments, vocal traits and body sizes, to illuminate how Shakespeare presents vibrant adolescent selves and stories.

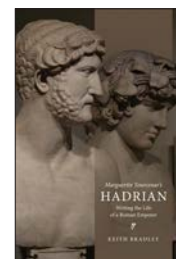

By analysing female and male puberty together in its discussion of adolescence, the book provides fresh insight into early modern adolescent identities.

Writing the Life of a Roman Emperor

KEITH BRADLEY

Marguerite Yourcenar is best known as the author of the 1951 novel Memoires d'Hadrien, her recreation of the life of the Roman emperor Hadrian.

The work can be examined from the perspective of the issues raised by writing Roman imperial biography at large and the many ways in which Memoires has a claim to historical authenticity. In Marguerite Yourcenar's Hadrian, Keith Bradley explains how Memoires d'Hadrien came to be written, gives details on Yourcenar's own biography, and describes some of the intricate historical problems that her novel's portrait of Hadrian presents. He draws on Yourcenar's correspondence, her interviews with journalists, and her literary corpus as a whole, emphasising Yourcenar's profound knowledge of the ancient evidence on which her life of Hadrian is based.

THE EXPULSION OF THE TRIUMPHANT BEAST

Spaccio della bestia trionfante
GIORDANO BRUNO, EDITED
AND TRANSLATED BY HILARY
GATTI

Published in London in 1584, The Expulsion of the Triumphant Beast is Giordano Bruno's first work of moral philosophy. It is dedicated with a long Explicatory Letter to Elizabeth I's most cultured courtier, Sir Philip Sidney.

It is a book about moral reform, expelling the beasts of evil and putting virtues in their place. Its theme is presented as an allegorical drama in which ancient myths assume modern meanings questioning the ways in which moral and religious reform have been conceived in both the ancient world and the cultures of Renaissance Europe. This new Italian text, based on the original printed text of 1584 held in the British Library, presents a less modernised version than those presently available, while maintaining a modern page format.

INVENTING THE MODERN REGION

Basque identity and the French nation-state
TALITHA ILACQUA

This book explores the process by which the French Basque country acquired a folkloric regional identity in the long nineteenth century.

It argues that, despite its origins in pre-modern customs, this stereotypical identity was invented as part of France's process of nation-building. The abolition of privileges in 1789 prompted a new interest in local culture as the defining feature of provincial France, shaping the transition from the pre-'modern' province to the 'modern' region. The relationship between the region and the nation, however, was difficult. Regional culture favoured the integration of the French Basque provinces into the French nation-state but also challenged the authority of the central state. As a result, Basque region-building reveals the strengths and weaknesses of the unitary model of French nationhood.

DEVELOPING AFRICA?

New Horizons with Afrocentricity
LEHASA MOLOI

Developing Africa? New Horizons with Afrocentricity aims to contest the Eurocentric narrative of an African development discourse.

This book deploys the theory of Afrocentricity as an intellectual standpoint from which African thinkers should interrogate and reconceptualise the discourse of development in Africa. Particularly, the book argues in favour of the Afrocentric re-interpretation of African history, African culture and assertion of African agency as the core building wedge in the reconceptualisation of the ideal African development trajectory.

THREADS OF GLOBALIZATION

Fashion, textiles, and gender in Asia in the long twentieth century

MELIA BELLI BOSE

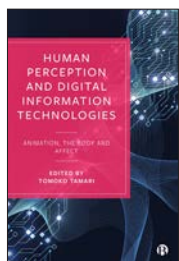

Threads of globalization is an interdisciplinary volume that brings fashion-specific garments, motifs, materials and methods of production into dialogue with gender and identity in various cultures throughout Asia during the long twentieth century.

It examines how the shift from artisanal production to 'fast fashion' over the past 150 years has devalued women's textile labour and how skilled textile/garment makers and the organisations that support them are preserving and reviving heritage traditions. It also offers examples of how socially engaged artists in Asia and the diaspora use their work to criticise labour and environmental abuses in the global fashion industry.

HUMAN PERCEPTION AND DIGITAL INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES

This ground-breaking collection explores the ways in which digital information technologies form and influence human perception and experience. Examining the relationship between technological reductionism and the body, it takes on board discursive perspectives from the humanities.

This collection introduces and explores the growing field of generational studies, providing a comprehensive overview of its strengths and limitations. With contributions from academics across a range of disciplines, the book showcases the concept’s interdisciplinary potential by applying a generational lens to fields including sociology, literature, history and politics.

DISSECTION PHOTOGRAPHY

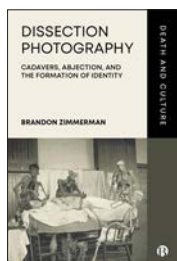

Cadavers, Abjection, and the Formation of Identity
BRANDON ZIMMERMAN

Contemporary audiences are often shocked to learn that in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, medical students around the world posed for photographic portraits with their cadavers; a genre known as dissection photography.

Featuring previously unseen images, stories and anecdotes, this book explores the visual culture of death within the gross anatomy lab through the tradition of dissection photography, examining its historical aspects from both photographic and medical perspectives.

The author pays particular attention to the use of dissection photographs as an expression of student identity, and as an evolving transgressive ritual intricately connected to, and eventually superseding, the act of dissection itself.

Understanding the Parenting Journeys and Support Needs of Young Fathers

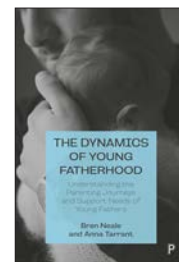

BREN NEALE, ANNA TARRANT

Around 1 in 10 children born in the UK are fathered by men under the age of 25. These men are often from socially disadvantaged areas and frequently overlooked in both research and practice settings.

Using findings from a major Economic and Social Research Council study, supplemented with additional data, the authors focus on the transitions of the young men into early parenthood and their unfolding lives thereafter.

As negative popular and media discourse around young fathers begins to shift, policymakers, practitioners, researchers and students will find future policy and practice directions designed to nurture the potential of these young men and their children.

WHEN SOCIAL WORKERS IMPACT POLICY AND DON'T JUST IMPLEMENT IT

A Framework for Understanding
Policy Engagement

JOHN GAL, IDIT WEISS-GAL

Rather than being seen simply as social policy implementors, in recent decades there has been increasing recognition of social workers as professionals with unique knowledge and insights to contribute to policy formulation and social justice.

This book offers a path-breaking, evidence-based theoretical framework for understanding why social workers engage in policy, both as professionals and citizens, and the impact of their actions. Drawing on concepts from social work and the political, sociological and policy sciences, the authors set out the implications of this framework for research, education and practice.

RADICALISATION, COUNTER- RADICALISATION AND PREVENT

A vernacular approach

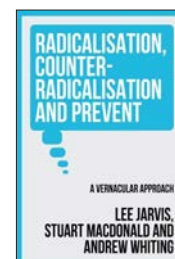

LEE JARVIS, ANDREW
WHITING, STUART
MACDONALD

This book offers the first sustained investigation into non-elite understandings of radicalisation and counter-radicalisation policy.

The book explores how 'ordinary' citizens understand radicalisation, how they make sense of counter-radicalisation initiatives like the UK Prevent Strategy, and how they evaluate its functioning and effects across society.

Radicalisation, counter-radicalisation and Prevent demonstrates that these non-elite insights often contradict and diverge from traditional (elite) security knowledge and thus shed new light on wider questions around the politics of security.

POLICE DIVERSITY

Beyond the Blue

TARA LAI QUINLAN

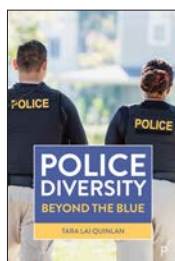

Tensions between police and diverse communities in both the US and UK require innovation about ways to improve relations.

While police diversity is often discussed as a potential solution, these discussions lack theoretical and empirical support.

This volume presents an original discussion of race, gender, sexual orientation and class diversity and shows that police diversity can have meaningful impacts on the decision-making, outcomes and legitimacy of police forces.

Drawing on theoretical and empirical research including interviews with diverse police leaders, this book examines how police diversity can help shift traditional policing cultures. It also considers obstacles to police reform, revealing how championing meaningful diversity can positively impact the lives of policed communities.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE, WILDLIFE CONSERVATION AND ANIMAL RIGHTS IN THE ANTHROPOCENE

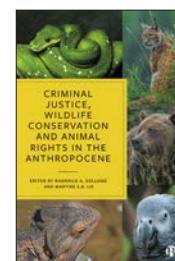

EDITED BY RAGNHILD A.
SOLLUND, MARTINE S. B. LIE

This book addresses one of today's most urgent issues: the loss of wildlife and habitat, which together constitute an ecological crisis.

Combining studies from different disciplines such as law, political science and criminology with a focus on animal rights, the chapters explore the successes and failures of the international wildlife conservation and trade treaties, CITES and the BERN Convention.

While these conventions have played a crucial role in protecting endangered species, the case studies in this book demonstrate huge variations in their implementation and enforcement across Europe.

WELL-BEING AND WELL-BECOMING IN SCHOOLS

EDITED BY THOMAS FALKENBERG

By its very nature, school education is concerned with student well-being. Written by Canadian education scholars from a Manitoba-based research group, Well-Being and Well-Becoming in Schools aims to develop the notion that what we wish for our children is their well-being and well-becoming as they live their lives.

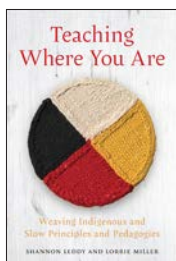

This collection brings education scholars together to focus on a timely topic that has been of rapidly increasing interest to the research and education communities: student well-being and flourishing schools. Contributors address a broad range of issues that arise from this position to create a rich and integrated understanding of the topic. Chapters focus on foundational issues, conceptual issues, socio-cultural and organisational issues, and pedagogical and curricular issues.

SHANNON LEDDY, LORRIE MILLER

Teaching Where You Are* offers a guide for non-Indigenous educators to work in good ways with Indigenous students.

In this book, two seasoned educators, one Indigenous and one settler, bring to bear their years of experience teaching in elementary, secondary, and post-secondary contexts to explore the ways in which Indigenous and Slow approaches to teaching and learning mirror and complement one another.

Using the holistic framework of the Medicine Wheel, the authors illustrate the ways in which interdisciplinary thinking can bring us back to the principle of teaching people, not subjects.

CAMILLA FITZSIMONS, JERRY O'NEILL

This book is essential reading for educators, student teachers, policymakers, and anyone with an interest in critical viewpoints on adult, community, and further education.

THE NEW GLOBAL UNIVERSITIES

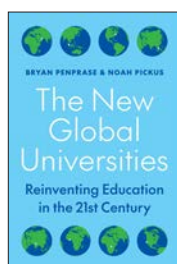

Reinventing Education in the 21st Century

BRYAN PENPRASE, NOAH PICKUS

Reimagining higher education around the world: lessons from the creation of eight new colleges and universities in Africa, Asia, the Middle East and North America.

Higher education is perpetually in crisis, buffeted by increasing costs and a perceived lack of return on investment, campus culture that is criticised for stifling debate on controversial topics, and a growing sense that the liberal arts are outmoded and irrelevant. Some observers even put higher education on the brink of death. The New Global Universities offers a counterargument, telling the story of educational leaders who have chosen not to give up on higher education but to reimagine it.

Fanning the flames

EDITED BY IRMA KINGA ALLEN, KRISTOFFER EKBERG, STÅLE HOLGERSEN, ANDREAS MALM

Growing out of the first international conference on political ecologies of the far right, the volume gathers crucial insights from authorities in the field as well as promising early career researchers.

With cases ranging from ethnographical accounts of fossil fuel populist protest, historical analysis of the evangelical support for fossil fuels to interrogations of the settler colonial identities and material conditions defended by far right actors around the world, the book provides scholars, students and activists with ways to understand and counter these developments.

HINDU NATIONALISM IN THE INDIAN DIASPORA

Transnational Politics and British Multiculturalism
EDWARD T.G. ANDERSON

Hindu nationalism is transforming India, as an increasingly dominant ideology and political force. But it is also a global phenomenon, with sections of India's vast diaspora drawn to, or actively supporting, right-wing Hindu nationalism. Indians overseas can be seen as an important, even inextricable, aspect of the movement. This is not a new dynamic — diasporic Hindutva ('Hindu-ness') has grown over many decades.

This book explores how and why the movement became popular among India's diaspora from the second half of the twentieth century. It shows that Hindutva ideology, and its plethora of organisations, have a distinctive resonance and way of operating overseas; the movement and its ideas perform significant, particular functions for diaspora communities.

UNDERSTANDING AND IMPROVING PUBLIC MANAGEMENT REFORMS

THOMAS ELSTON

Why do top-down reforms to public services so often over-promise and under-deliver?

Using five concepts from psychology, economics and organisational sociology, Thomas Elston addresses this pressing question of good governance.

Focusing on the practical challenge of how to undertake better public management reforms, he questions the assumption that failure typically occurs because of poor reform implementation. Instead, he shows how reforms are often badly designed from the outset, being fashioned, more focused more on fixing errors than exploiting opportunities and ignoring implicit costs of change.

This concise, practically-orientated work employs diverse examples to propose ways to improve the design of public sector reform programmes.

SECURITY AFTER THE UNTHINKABLE

Terror and disenchantment in Oslo/Utøya
J. BURGESS

This book builds a theoretical perspective for explaining what security remains after the security event. It studies in detail the evolution of security thinking before, during and after the 2011 terrorist attack in Utøya and Oslo, Norway, tracking the political discourse and the institutional reactions in order to form a theory of 'terror and disenchantment'.

It develops a general theory of security that contributes to ongoing debates on non-military security, asymmetric warfare, ontological security and human security. It revisits the nature of terrorism, the sense of its practice and re-conceptualises the way practice of counter- and anti-terrorism are embedded in social, cultural and national consciousness.

Social ecological economics is an emerging paradigm that combines critical social science with realism to offer a radical theoretically grounded alternative economics based on ethical social provisioning to meeting needs.

The foundations of the approach include its radical roots, philosophical presuppositions and preanalytic vision. Both mainstream and heterodox economics — Marxism, feminism, institutionalism, Post Keynesianism — are critically reviewed highlighting the lack of attention to the combined social and environmental crises. The potentiality and means for integration of knowledge across heterodox thought is explored and explicitly addressed.

‘SURVIVAL CAPITALISM’ AND THE BIG BANG

Culture, contingency and capital in the making of the 1980s financial revolution
EMMA BARRETT

This book about the Thatcher government and the City of London tells the compelling human story of the people and processes that made Britain’s 1980s financial revolution.

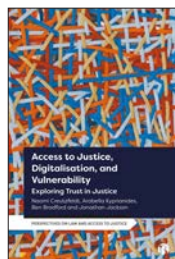

Fusing insider testimony with new archival discoveries, it examines high stakes and networked solutions, and uncovers new objectives that drove reforms. In so doing it demystifies a major shift in capitalism. This has implications for our understandings of government and capitalism, from the way we think about the origins of subsequent financial crises to today’s growing inequalities. Survival Capitalism offers new insights into the last major restructuring of the City and disrupts myths surrounding the logics of the market.

MARKETS AND POWER IN DIGITAL CAPITALISM

PHILIPP STAAB

Markets and power in digital capitalism delves into the complex world of modern capitalism, where technology giants reign supreme. From Google and Apple to Amazon and Tencent, these internet behemoths have reshaped the economic landscape, transforming capitalism as we know it.

Philipp Staab takes readers on a thought-provoking journey through the virtual realm, exploring how digital surveillance and evaluation practices have infiltrated every aspect of our lives. What sets digital capitalism apart, he argues, is the rise of 'proprietary markets'. No longer focused on producing goods and selling them for profit, today's meta-platforms thrive by owning and controlling the very markets in which they operate. This raises important questions about power dynamics, market monopolies and the future of economic systems.

LITERATURES OF THE HUNDRED YEARS WAR

EDITED BY DANIEL DAVIES, R. D. PERRY

From England and France to the Low Countries, Wales, Scotland, and Italy, the Hundred Years War (1337-1453) fundamentally shaped late-medieval literature.

This volume adopts an expansive focus to reveal the transnational literary consequences of over a century of international conflict. While traditionally seen as an Anglo-French conflict, the Hundred Years War was a multilateral conflict with connections across the continent through alliances and proxy battles. Writers, whether as witnesses, diplomats, or provocateurs, played key roles in shaping the conflict, and the conflict equally impacted the course of literary history. The volume shows how a wide variety of genres and works are deeply engaged with responses to the war, from women's visionary writing to anonymous lyric poetry.

PEDIGREES, POWER AND CLANSHIP

Essays on Medieval Scotland
DAVID SELLAR, EDITED BY
HECTOR L. MACQUEEN

This book brings together the major writings of David Sellar (1941-2019) on the genealogies (pedigrees) claimed by some of the major clans of medieval Highland and Island Scotland, especially the descendants of their twelfth-century king Somerled.

The claimed pedigrees in the medieval Gaelic 1467 manuscript and the Irish genealogies are critically analysed in relation to each other, and their historical authenticity tested against other evidence, including the Gaelic or Norse quality of their recorded names. Contemporary literary material is considered alongside later recorded traditions descending from the seanchaidh, whose work was to hand down by relating and singing them at births, baptisms, marriages, inaugurations, feasts and funerals.

THE COLD WAR IN THE 1950S

NICOLAS LEWKOWICZ

A study of the domestic and external conditions that shaped the interaction between the United States and the Soviet Union in the 1950s.

The Cold War in the 1950s describes the domestic and external conditions that shaped the interaction between the United States and the Soviet Union during the 1950s. It claims that the United States and the Soviet Union attained mastery of the international order by projecting universalist values that responded to the particularist markers of the domestic order that was generated in the 1950s. The geopolitical orientation adopted by the superpowers in the 1950s was shaped by the way in which their societies developed politically, socially and economically in the decade.

The book examines how these structures have perpetuated discourses of racial, ethnic, gender, and social exclusion rooted in Mexico's history. The volume addresses three central questions: How does the Mexican colonial history influence the definition of Mexico from within and outside its borders? What issues rooted in coloniality recur over time and space? And finally, how do cultural products provide a concrete and tangible way of studying coloniality, its history, and its evolution?

EDITED BY DAVID FEATHERSTONE, CHRISTIAN HØGSBJERG, ALAN RICE

Revolutionary lives of the Red and Black Atlantic brings to light the life histories of a wide range of radical figures whose political activity in relation to the black liberation struggle was profoundly shaped by the global impact and legacy of the Russian Revolution of October 1917.

The volume introduces new perspectives on the intellectual trajectories of well-known figures and critical activists including C. L. R. James, Paul Robeson, Walter Rodney and Grace P. Campbell. This biographical approach brings a vivid and distinctive lens to bear on how racialised social and political worlds were negotiated and experienced by these revolutionary figures, and on historic black radical engagements with left political movements, in the wake of the Russian Revolution.

Embodiment, history and archaeology in industrialising England, 1700-1850

EDITED BY ELIZABETH CRAIG-ATKINS, KAREN HARVEY

This volume explores the possibilities of studying embodied subjects in the past through the approaches of archaeology, history and material culture studies.

It draws on collections of human remains, material culture and documentary evidence from Britain during the period 1700-1850, considering the themes of gender, rank, age, disability and maternity. Each chapter looks at the lived experiences of the material body, bringing together disciplines that share an interest in the material or embodied turn. ROBERT FRANKLIN WILLIAMS SPEAKS: A DOCUMENTARY HISTORY

EDITED BY RONALD J. STEPHENS

Includes a collection of writings by and about Robert Franklin Williams as an internationalist, pragmatist, and civil and human rights champion.

Williams was a compassionate man. He was an intelligent American citizen and Korean war veteran, who claimed his right to American citizenship. Acutely aware of the broken promises of the US government, he remained fully invested in the rights, privileges, and responsibilities the Constitution guaranteed all of its citizens. As many of his contemporaries now confess, Williams's strength and appeal, as explained by his second son, John Williams, was his uncompromising stance and determination to act on the American dream he imagined for social, economic, and political equality for African Americans.

REVOLUTION AND THE GLOBAL STRUGGLE FOR MODERNITY

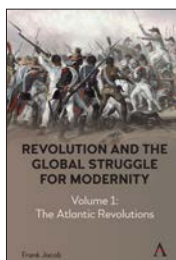

Volume 1 — The Atlantic Revolutions

FRANK JACOB

Provides a comparative ten-step model for revolutions and shows that these must be considered a global phenomenon of modernity.

This book will analyse several revolutions of the 'long' nineteenth and 'short' twentieth century to show how revolutionary processes evolved. It will therefore use a comparative ten-step model to emphasise similarities with regard to the revolutionary developments in different parts of the world. The book consequently aims at providing a general, but deeper, understanding of revolutions as a global phenomenon of modernity while explaining how revolutionary processes evolve and develop, and how they could and can be corrupted.

DATA SCIENCE FOR NEUROIMAGING

An Introduction

ARIEL ROKEM, TAL YARKONI

As neuroimaging turns toward data-intensive discovery, researchers in the field must learn to access, manage and analyse datasets at unprecedented scales.

Concerns about reproducibility and increased rigor in reporting of scientific results also demand higher standards of computational practice. This book offers neuroimaging researchers an introduction to data science, presenting methods, tools and approaches that facilitate automated, reproducible and scalable analysis and understanding of data. Through guided, hands-on explorations of openly available neuroimaging datasets, the book explains such elements of data science as programming, data management, visualisation and machine learning, and describes their application to neuroimaging.

EDITED BY ZIAUDDIN SARDAR

Saliha, translated, means ‘virtuous’. A question becomes timeless not because it lacks an answer, but also because it requires revisiting as contexts change.

So, in our ever-changing, post-normal world, the time is ripe to ask: What does it mean to be a good person or to bring out the good in others or society? Whereas ‘virtues discourse’ largely revolves around ethics dominated by Ancient Greek and modern or contemporary Western thought, this issue seeks a more critical analysis of Islamic and other non-Western virtues. We will explore other, less-often-heard, harder-to-name virtues, fit for the present era.

Critical Muslim is a quarterly publication of ideas and issues showcasing groundbreaking thinking on Islam and what it means to be a Muslim in a rapidly changing, interconnected world.

COVENANTAL THINKING

Essays on the Philosophy and Theology of David Novak

EDITED BY PAUL E. NAHME, YANIV FELLER

The philosophy and theology of David Novak, one of the most prominent and creative contemporary Jewish thinkers, grapples with Judaism, Christian theology, the tradition of natural law, and the Western philosophical canon.

Never shying away from contested ethical and religious themes, Novak’s original insights and intellectual spirit have spanned voluminous publications and inspired Jewish, Christian and Muslim thinkers to engage concepts such as religious liberty, covenantal morality and the importance of theological reasoning. Written primarily by scholars in the field of Jewish thought, Covenantal Thinking is a collection of essays dedicated to Novak’s work.

MEANINGFUL PASTS

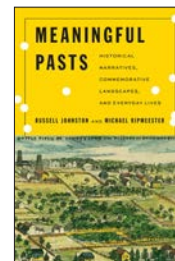

Historical Narratives, Commemorative Landscapes, and Everyday Lives

RUSSELL JOHNSTON, MICHAEL RIPMEESTER

In Meaningful Pasts, Russell Johnston and Michael Ripmeester explore two strands of identity-making among residents of the Niagara Region in Ontario, Canada.

First, they describe the region’s official narratives, most of which celebrate the achievements of white settlers with a mix of storytelling, rituals, and monuments. Despite their presence in local lore and landmarks, these official narratives did not resonate with the nearly one thousand residents who participated in five surveys conducted over eleven years. Instead, participants drew on contemporary people, places, and events. Second, the authors explore the emergence of Niagara’s wine

PRECARIOUS INTIMACIES

Generation, Rent and the Reproduction of Relationships in London

FAITH MACNEIL TAYLOR

In a time of increasing social and economic inequality, this book illustrates the precarity experienced by millennials facing both rising rents and wage stagnation.

Featuring the voices of those with lived experience of precarity in north-east London, MacNeil Taylor focuses on intimacy, reproduction and emotional labour.

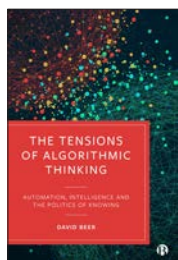

The book widens readers' understanding of a middle-class 'generation rent' beyond those locked out of anticipated home ownership by considering both social and private renters. Situated in a feminist and queer theoretical framework, the book reveals the crucial role of British policy-making on housing, welfare, and immigration on deepening inter- and intra-generational inequality.

THE TENSIONS OF ALGORITHMIC THINKING

Automation, Intelligence and the Politics of Knowing

DAVID BEER

From machine learning and artificial intelligence to blockchain or simpler news-feed filtering, automated systems can transform the social world in ways that are just starting to be imagined.

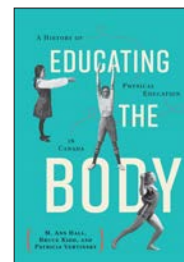

Redefining these emergent technologies as the new systems of knowing, pioneering scholar David Beer examines the acute tensions they create and how they are changing what is known and what is knowable. Drawing on cases ranging from the art market and the smart home through to financial tech, AI patents and neural networks, he develops key concepts for understanding the framing, envisioning and implementation of algorithms.

EDUCATING THE BODY

A History of Physical Education in Canada

M. ANN HALL, BRUCE KIDD, PATRICIA VERTINSKY

Educating the Body* presents a history of physical education in Canada, shedding light on its major advocates, innovators, and institutions.

The book traces the major developments in physical education from the early nineteenth century to the present day – both within and beyond schools – and concludes with a vision for the future. It examines the realities of Canada's classed, gendered, and racialised society and reveals the rich history of Indigenous teachings and practices that were marginalised and erased by the residential school system. Today, with the worrying decline in physical activity levels across the population, Educating the Body is indispensable to understanding our policy options moving ahead.
